THE GREAT FIGHT.

A Letter from John C. Heenan.

A report which was current in London that Heenan had died of erysipelas proved to be utterly unfounded.

Heenan, on the 22d, writes to the Times:

I see by your article of Saturday that you misunderstood my wishes, and it does me great injustice. I have no difference to settle with Sayers except such as I tried to settle with him on the 16th; and instead of being called a "Boy" I ought to be termed a "Baby," if, after having come so far, and not having got a settlement, I should be willing to relinquish my purpose for a few good-natured pats on the back, and being told I am a fine fellow. I have received a great many anonymous letters, asking me if I am not ashamed of myself, a great fellow like me, to come over to whip a little man like Sayers. Under ordinary circumstances I should not think of sending a challenge to a man of Sayers' size, but England thinks him big enough to defend the belt. I want it, and cannot get it, except through him. The inclosed letter, which I sent to Bell's Life, when I heard that they intended to call in the surgeon to name the day before which Sayers could not finish the pending affair, will show my position; and as Bell's Life has not published it, you will do me a great kindness in letting the English people hear what I have to say. If the late meeting is not to be resumed and the belt is not to come to me for what has already taken place, I claim to be first on the list to meet Sayers again for the next chance to conquer it."

The following is the letter to Bell's Life:

"Not having been able to obtain from you as a referee, the final decision upon the fight of Tuesday last, I desire to demand through you a new meeting within the pesent week, I make this demand from having been informed that it has been suggested on your part that I should give Sayers sufficient time to recover from certain injuries received by him. Now, Sir while I am willing to accommodate him in any proper way, I must not be unmindful of my own rights. I also received injuries, but I bargained for them, and I put it to you as a man of honor, whether if I have been deprived, through the effects of the said battle, of my eyesight or the use of my arm, as in the case of Brettle, when disabled by Sayers, you would have made Sayers wait for me for any length of time that might be dictated by my private doctor. When this match was made, the date for the battle was the 16th, or as soon as we could get to fight; and, according to the rules, if the battle should be interrupted, it was my understanding, and I believe it is the law, that we should fight within a week. We did meet, according to contract. The battle was said to be unfinished, and I am prepared to renew it at any moment within lawful limits. If Sayers is not, on account of injuries received from me, and cannot meet me according to the rules of the manly opposition, I demand and claim that resign to me the belt which he is not, according to the rules of the prize ring, entitled to retain. Hoping to receive an answer from you before this week expires, stating your views in full, I am, &c., &c.,

JOHN C. HEENAN.

P. S.—You will please understand I don't wish to compel Sayers to fight because he is represented to be in a disabled state, but I wish to obtain what I think I have already won, and which I will cheerfully hand back whenever he, or any other person, thinks he can take it from me.

Two hundred pounds are said to have been subscribed in Liverpool by American Captains for the benefit of Heenan.

GREAT BRITAIN.

In the House of Lords on the 24th the Marquis of Normanby brought forward a resolution complaining of secret correspondence having been carried on between Lord Cowley, the British Ambassador at Paris, and the Home Government, having reference to important matters on the Savoy question, and declaring it injurious to public service to have questions of moment referred to in private correspondence unless there is also public record of the same. Lord Cowley stated that he regarded the motion as a censure upon himself, and had come from Paris expressly to defend his course. He asserted that his first information relative to the intentions of France was received privately, and the matter of the opinion of Walewski and the communication was of such a nature that he was unable to include them in public dispatches. The first official intimation he had was in February last, and he then forthwith laid it before the Government. He denied that any communication of importance had been withheld.

The Marquis of Normandy finally withdrew the resolution.

In the House of Commons the debate udon the Reform bill was resumed, but, without action, the discussion was adjourned till the 26th.

Mr. Massey announced that he would not persist in his motion for referring the bill to a Select Committee.

The proceedings in both Houses, on the 24th, were unimportant.

The frauds committeed by W. F. Pullinger, chief cashier of the Union Bank of London, amounted to to the enormous sum of £260,000, (nearly $1,125,000) which places him at the head of the class of defaulters in London. The entire loss will be met from the Bank's profits, a sum of £120,000 drawn from the reserved fund and capitalized will be transferred back, the present reserved fund will be swept away, and the remainder will be provided for from the profits of the present year. The delinquent carried on unsuccessful stock operations for years, and his frauds were carried on by means of a forged pass book, representing an account of the Union Bank with the Bank of England.

The shares of the Union Bank were quoted at a decline of £5.

The Earl of St. Germans, Lord Steward of the Queen's household, goes to Canada in the retinue of the Prince of Wales.

Lieut. Col. Crealock is to be Military Secretary to Lord Elgin in his Mission to China. Lord Elgin was to leave London on the 25th April, for China.

It is stated that £170,000 have been paid from Lloyd's on the ship and cargo of the steamship Hungarian.

The London Times, in an editorial upon Mr. Haliburton's speech in the House of Commons, on behalf of the timber trade of Canada, censures the cavalier manner in which Mr. Gladstone replied, and asserts that the English public is no party to such treatment, which it thinks must prove very offensive to the colony.

The weather throughout England continued cold and wintry. Spring was very backward, and gave some little anxiety regarding agricultural prospects.

The steamship Connaught, for the Galway line, was successfully launched at Newcastle on the 21st.

Sir G. Clark is gazetted Governor of Bombay.

The Volunteer force engaged now reaches 124,000 men.

FRANCE.

Baron Gros was to leave Paris for China on the 25th of April.

It was stated that Austria, Russia and Prussia had agreed to the proposition that the contemplated European Conference of France on the Swiss question should meet in Paris. The Conference, it is presumed, will be composed of the following Powers: Austria, France, England, Spain, Portugal, Prussia, Russia, Sardinia, Sweden and Switzerland, who will be represented by their Ambassadors to France.

The Paris Flour market was firmer, and had advanced one franc per sack. There was a short supply of Wheat, which had advanced to 70 centimes per sack.

The Bourse on the 24th was flat and drooping rentes closed at 70f. 05c.

THE VOTE IN SAVOY.

The voting on the question of annexation to France took place on Sunday the 22d. A dispatch from Chamberry in the Paris journals says the enthusiasm was immense, and that all efforts to induce the people to abstain from voting completely failed. The whole number of voters in the district of St. Jean Maurrienne have voted for annexation to France.

At Faucigny the voting was almost unanimously for annexation. At Bonneville there was a registered vote of 2,761 Ayes and one No. At Chamberry there were 3,300 Ayes out of 3,800 entitled to vote. At Ameely the voting in favor of annexation was nearly unanimous.

A Geneva telegram says the voting in Faucigny has taken place entirely under the influence of the authorities and clergy; there was no ballot—not even permission to print a card expressing a vote against annexation—and the number of voters who have abstained from voting is very large. The latest dispatches show an immense majority for annexation everywhere.

A large sum has been placed to the credit of the Minister of War to defray the expenses.

The Paris correspondent of the Times says that crime is fearfully increasing in Paris, and that a frightful number of murders has been committed during the past few months.

The editor of a satirical journal of Turin has been condemned to two months' imprisonment and a fine for publishing disgraceful articles against the Emperor of the French.

SPAIN.

Count de Montemolin and his brother Ferdinand and their vallet were arrested at Amposta, near Tortosa, at 2 o'clock on the morning of the 21st. The gendarmes surrounded the house, and after having vainly demanded admittance, one effected an entrance through the window. The Princes were dressed, and declared themselves at the disposal of the gendarmes.

A majority of the Spanish Press was in favor of trial by an ordinary Court-martial. The Correspondencia Autographia considers that nothing will be resolved upon until the return of O'Donnel from Africa, but believed that the conspirators will be tried by the Senate.

The Moorish Plenipotentiary had arrived at Tetuan, and negotiations for carrying out the conditions of peace had commenced.

Madrid, Wednesday, April 25, 1860.

The official Gazette promulgates the convention between Spain and England relative to the extradition of sailors.

The rumor that the Moorish Plenipotentiaries have not sufficient authority to negotiate has unfavorably influenced the public mind.

The semi-official Autograph gives a denial to this rumor. The same journal states that the Ministers are perfectly agreed as to the course to be pursued in the trial of Count Montesmolin.

ITALY.

The King continued his triumphant progress through his new dominions. He was at Leghorn on the 23d.

The criminal proceedings at Bologna against Father Felleti, an inquisitor of the Holy Office, for the abduction of the child, Mortara, had resulted in his acquittal.

The King of Sardinia, following the advice of France, had for the moment abandoned the idea of taking the title of King of Italy.

A commission was formed among the Clergy of Turin to have drawn up an address to the Pope, which, after receiving the signatures of the Clergy of the Kingdom, is to be sent to the Vatican. This document places before the eyes of his Holiness the danger of the present policy of Rome, and points out that the surest means of warding them off is to accept the propositions contained in the letter of King Victor Emanuel.

NAPLES.

Accounts from various sources represent the insurrection in Sicily as completely suppressed.

The Independance Belge states that the Count of Syracuse had written to Prince de Carignan, stating that he will offer his sword to the King of Sardinia, to combat for the cause of liberty and Italian nationality, if his nephew, the King of Naples, persists in his dangerous policy of refusing to restore the Neapolitan Constitution of 1848.

The assassination of Gen. Viglia is confirmed.

AUSTRIA.

Baron Bruck, Minister of Finance, had been suddenly taken ill, from congestion of blood, and expired in the afternoon of the 23d.

A dispatch announcing concessions to Hungary is now said to have been marked by considerable exaggeration, and the belief was current in some quarters that no real change towards Hungary was contemplated, and that the object was probably to deprive the Hungarians of the sympathy of Western Europe.

Prince Czartoryski died on the 23d.

Latest.—The Werner Zeitung contains a decree appointing Councillor of State, Ignaz Von Plauer to the Ministry of Finance. He is also created Privy Councillor.

RUSSIA.

Letters from Berlin state that the arrangements for the Russian loan were believed to have been effected with Baring, of London, and Hope, of Amsterdam, to the amount of 50,000,000 roubles. It was not known whether this was entirely a new loan or if the sum consisted in whole or in part of loans formerly announced, but not yet placed.

The London Daily News regards the statement as unfounded.

INDIA AND CHINA.

Calcutta telegrams give reports of disturbances having broken out in Cabul.

Canton dispatches, dated March 14, state that the rebel disturbances were increasing throughout China.

It was rumored at Shanghai that the four war vessels which recently proceeded to the Pecheelee River, carried an ultimatum to the Chinese Government.

The stock of Teas was very light, and supplies were exhausted. Sales were made at full prices.

The Papal Controversy.

INTERESTING AND IMPORTANT CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN VICTOR EMANUEL AND PIUS IX.

We find in Le Nord, of Brussels, of April 20, the following interesting correspondence between the King of Sardinia and the Roman Pontiff, concerning the annexation of the Romagna to the dominions of the King, and other incidents of the pending controversy. The letters have not yet reached us through the London journals, and we translate them from Le Nord:

LETTER OF KING VICTOR EMANUEL TO THE POPE.

Most Holy Father:—In your letter of the 3d December last, your Holiness requests me to maintain before Congress the rights of the Holy See. I must, above all, return my thanks to your Holiness for the sentiments which led him to address himself to me on this occasion. This I should not have neglected to do until now, if I had not waited for the Congress to assemble, as it had been resolved. Expecting to see the assembling of the Plenipotentiaries definitely decided upon, I waited that I might then in a more regular manner reply to the important arguments treated of in the letter which you have done me the honor to address to me.

Your Holiness, in invoking my coöperation for the recovery of the Legations, seems to intend to make me responsible for all that has occurred in this part of Italy. Before accepting such severe censure, I respectfully ask your Holiness to examine the following facts and considerations:

A devoted son of the Church, and descendant of a very pious race, as your Holiness well knows, I have always nourished sentiments of sincere attachment, veneration and respect for the Holy Church, and her august Chief. Never has it been, nor is it now, my intention to fall short of my duties as a Catholic sovereign, or to lessen, as far as it depends upon me, the rights and the authority which the Holy See exercise upon earth, by virtue of the divine appointment of Heaven.

But I also have sacred duties to perform towards God and towards men—towards the country and the people, which Divine Providence has confided to my government. I have always sought to reconcile these duties of a Catholic sovereign with those of an independent ruler of a free and civilized people, both in the interior administration of my States, and in the direction of my foreign policy.

For many years Italy has been agitated by events which all tend to the same result:—the recovery of her independence. These events have already had a coöperator in the person of my illustrious father, who, obeying the impulse coming from the Vatican, and adopting the memorable motto of Jules II., sought to deliver our country from foreign domination. Dying, he left me as a legacy this noble enterprise—and in accepting it I did not think that I was opposing myself to the rulings of Providence, which certainly cannot approve of a people being divided into oppressors and oppressed.

As an Italian sovereign I wanted to deliver Italy; and to bring this about I thought it my duty to accept the aid of all people of the Peninsula in this national war. The Legations, for many years oppressed by foreign soldiers, had revolted as soon as they retreated. They offered me at the same time their help in the war and the Dictatorship. I, who had done nothing to provoke this insurrection, refused the Dictatorship on account of my respect for the Holy See, but accepted their aid in the war of independence, because that was a holy duty for every Italian citizen.

When the war was terminated, my Government renounced all interference in the affairs of the Legations. And when the presence of a bold (audacieux) General was likely to endanger the fate of the provinces, occupied by the troops of your holiness, I exerted all my influence in trying to make him withdraw from them.

The people, left entirely free and unembarrassed by any outside influence, demanded, even in opposition to the counsels of the most powerful and generous friend Italy has ever had, annexation to my Kingdom with a most admirable enthusiasm and unanimity.

These wishes were not attended to. And, nevertheless, this people, which had but shortly before given such unmistakable proofs of its discontent with the Court of Rome, as to inspire it with continual apprehensions has governed itself during several months in a most praiseworthy manner. They have attended to all public interests, maintained tranquillity, provided for individual security and the protection of religion. It is a known fact, and which I have taken pains to verify, that in the Legations the ministers of religion are actually more respected and protected, and the temples of God better frequented than they were before.

But however this may be, it is the general conviction, that the Government of Your Holiness cannot again obtain these provinces without the employment of arms and of foreign troops.

Your Holiness cannot desire this. His generous heart and evangelical charity will not consent to the spilling of Christian blood for the sake of regaining a province, which, whatever the result of the war may be, would always remain morally lost to the Government of the Church. The interest of religion does not demand this.

The moment is favorable. It belongs not to me, the devoted son of your Holiness, to indicate the surest means of pacifying our country, and reëstablishing of solid foundations the prestige and the authority of the Holy See in Italy. And yet I think it my duty to indicate and submit to your Holiness an idea, of which I am perfectly convinced. It is this: If your Holiness—taking into consideration the necessities of the times, the growing power of the principle of nationalities, the irresistible outburst which forces the Italians to form a union and an organization conformable to the rules adopted by all civilized nations—should believe it necessary to reclaim my frank and loyal succor, there would be a way of establishing, not only in the Romagna, but also in the Marches and in Ombria, a state of things which, while preserving to the Church its supreme power, and assuring to the sovereign Pontiff a glorious position at the head of the Italian nation, would at the same time leave the population of these provinces to participate in the benefits which a strong and really national government assures to the greater part of Central Italy.

I hope your Holiness will deign to take these reflections into consideration, dictated as they are by a sincere heart, devoted altogether to his person; and that with his habitual kindness he will bestow upon me his holy benediction.

Turin, 6th February, 1860.

(Signed) VICTOR EMANUEL.

LETTER OF THE POPE TO VICTOR EMANUEL.

Sire: The idea which your Majesty has sought to explain to me is a very imprudent one, and assuredly unworthy of a Catholic King, and of a King from the House of Savoy. My reply is already on the point of appearing in print, in the Encyclical letter to the Catholic Bishops, where you can read it.

For the rest, I am very much affected, not on my own account, but for the unhappy situation of the soul of your Majesty, for it is already suffering the penalty of censures: and even of those which are yet to follow, when the sacrilegious act shall have been consummated, which you and your followers have the intention of bringing about. I pray the Lord, from the depth of my heart, to illume you with his grace and enable you to see and weep over the scandals which have taken place, and the frightful evils which have struck poor Italy under your coöperation.

(Signed,) PIUS IX.

From the Vatican, Feb. 14, 1860.

LETTER OF VICTOR EMANUEL TO THE POPE.

Most Holy Father: The events that have occurred in the Romagna impose upon me the duty of explaining to your Holiness, with a respectful frankness, the reasons of my conduct.

Ten years of uninterrupted foreign occupation of the Romagna, although a grave obstacle to the independence of Italy, have been unable to give order to society, repose to the people, or authority to the Government. When this foreign occupation came to an end, the Government immediately broke down, and no person volunteered his aid in helping to put it up and reëstablish it again. Left to themselves, the people of Romagna, although reported ungoverable, proved by a conduct, which merited the applause of Europe, that order and civil and military discipline, the appurtenances of the most civilized nations, could be also introduced amongst them.

But the uncertainty of a precarious situation, already prolonged, was a peril for Italy and for Europe.

When all hopes of seeing a European Congress assemble, to deliberate on the question of Central Italy, had to be renounced, there was no other possible solution left than to question the people anew on their future destinies. The solemnity of universal suffrage having confirmed the wish for annexation to the constitutional moarchy of Piedmont, I was bound definitely to accept it in the interest of the peace and the happiness of Italy. But in the interest of peace I am always disposed to render homage to the supreme sovereignty of the Apostolic See. As a Catholic sovereign, I believe I am not violating the immutable principles of religion, which I glory in professing with a filial and unalterable devotion.

But the change which has thus taken place affects the political interests of the nation, the security of the States, the moral and civil condition of society; it affects the independence of Italy, for which my father sacrificed his crown, and for which I should be willing to sacrifice my life. The difficulties one encounters at the present day are centered around a mode of territorial domination, which events have rendered necessary. All the States have been compelled to acknowledge this necessity, and even the Holy see has recognized it in ancient and modern times.

In all the modifications of sovereignty, justice, and the civil order of the State advise the taking necessary care to reconcile ancient rights with new institutions, and this is the motive why, with full confidence in the good sentiments and just spirit of your Holiness, I beg him to facilitate this enterprise of my government, which, on its part, will neglect no means and spare no pains to arrive to the end desired.

If your Holiness should receive these frank overtures with favor, my government, ready to render homage to the right sovereignty of the Apostolic See, would be likewise cheerfully disposed to work in an equal manner for the diminution of the charges and for the security and independence of the Apostolic See.

Such are our sincere intentions, and such are also, I believe, the wishes of Europe. And since I have now, in loyal words, opened my heart to your Holiness, I shall await the result of his decisions, hoping that with the help of the good will of both Governments, an understanding will be established, which, resting on the principles and the satisfaction of the people, shall assure to the relations of both Governments a durable basis.

I await from the kindness of the father of the faithful a favorable reception, which may strengthen the hope to see civil discord come to an end, exasperated spirits grow calm, and the whole world escape the responsibility of such evils as might result from contrary counsels. In this confidence I humbly pray your Holiness to give me his apostolic benediction.

Turin, Tuesday, March 20, 1860.

(Signed,) VICTOR EMANUEL.

LETTER OF THE POPE TO THE KING.

Majesty! The events that have taken place in some provinces of the States of the Church, impose the duty on your Majesty, as he writes me, to render me account of his conduct in regard to these events. I might confine myself to disputing certain assertions contained in his letter, and saying for instance: That the foreign occupation of the Legations had for a long time been confined to Bologna, which has never been a part of the Romagna. I might say that the pretended universal suffrage was forced and not voluntary; but I abstain from demanding advice of your Majesty in regard to this universal suffrage, as also from saying what my opinion is about it. I might say that the Pontificial troops have been hindered in reëstablishing the legitimate government in the revolted provinces, from motives which are equally well known to your majesty. I might support myself on these and other considerations; but what imposes the duty upon me, not to follow the arguments of your majesty, is the immorality, which I see continually increasing in his dominions, and the insults there thrown upon religion and her ministers. And still more, even if I were not held by solemn oaths to maintain intact the patrimony of the church; oaths which forbid me to enter into any arrangement, which has the object of diminishing the extension of this patrimony, I should still feel obliged to repulse every project of this kind, in order not to soil my conscience by an act which might lead me to sanction and participate indirectly in these disorders, and to aid nothing less than a justification of an unjust and violent spoliation.

For the rest, I can not only give no favorable reaption to the projects of your majesty, but I protest, on the contrary, against an usurpation which operates to the detriment of the state of the Church, and which leaves upon the conscience of Your Majesty, and every other coöperator in this egregious spoliation, the fatal consequences which will follow therefrom. I am persuaded that Your Majesty, in reading again, with a spirit more tranquil, less prejudiced and better instructed on facts, the letter which he addresses me, will find numerous motives for repentance therein.

I pray God to give Your Majesty the grace of which he stands more in need in the difficult circumstances of the moment.

America and its Institutions.

THE RIOT IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES UPON THE LOVEJOY SPEECH.

From the London Times, April 21.

Everybody may observe on the floor of the House of Commons, at the distance of about a couple of feet from the benches that confront each other on each side, two parallel lines wrought into the matting by which the feet of the members are in some degree protected from the subterranean blast which, rising from the catacombs beneath, diffuses a cloud of impalpable, but not invisible dust, over deliberations already sufficiently dry. These streaks trace, according to ancient traditions, the line beyond which it is not permitted for a member to advance in the course of debate, and are placed at a distance so great as to prevent our pugnacious ancestors in the very hottest moment of debate from having recourse to their swords. In modern days the line has outlived its uses, and has become as rudimentary as the wings with which the ostrich no longer attempts to fly. Sometimes an accurate observer may perceive a member, in the eagerness of debate, gradually sliding away from his proper position and edging himself off beyond the limit assigned to his motions. But such eccentricities have never provoked more than a passing smile or a momentary consciousness in the mind of the member that he has placed himself in a ridiculous position. Things are taken more seriously in America, and the scene which recently took place in the Capitol of Washington may enable us to comprehend those stormier times of which the streak on the floor of the House of Commons is now the only abiding trace.

It seems that on a recent occasion a certain Mr. Lovejoy was declaiming, with all the ardor of an enlightened patriot, in a committee of the whole House on the state of the Union, against the manifold evils and abominations of negro slavery. His eloquence moved not only his audience, but himself. He gradually edged away from his proper position; his motions became more rapid as his declamation grew more forcible, until, at the very climax of indignant oratory, he found himself gesticulating violently and inveighing furiously in front of the Democratic benches, and, as Democracy in America is essentially a slaveholding institution, in front of the very men whose most valuable property he was sedulously depreciating. Dark grew the faces of the Southerners at this unwelcome and irritating apparition. Their hands were clenched, their teeth were set, their eyes flashed fire, and all things seemed to announce the coming of what, in the land of liberty, is usually known as a "free fight." Mr. Pryor, springing to his feet, protested against the conduct of Mr. Lovejoy in crossing over to the Democratic side of the Hall, and shook his fist in Mr. Lovejoy's face. Nor were the Republicans, on their side, slow to back their champion in his inroad on the stronghold of the enemy. The noise and tumult were inexpressible, and it appeared at one moment as if the representatives of the people were about to add one more to the numerous fights which have already given a classical reputation to the Hall in which Congress assembles. The Chairman of Committees strove in vain to restore order; he called to his aid the Speaker, and the Speaker called upon the Sergeant-at-Arms. Nor did he, as far as we can ascertain, answer the call or involve himself in the perils of the scene. The Deputy Sergeant-at-Arms did, indeed, appear; but he was ordered to stand aside by the infuriated senators, and a pugilistic encounter after the fashion of the recent battle near Aldershott seemed inevitable. Honorable gentlemen were beginning to pair off, and place themselves in hostile attitude. Some encouraged the intending combatants, while others of a gentler and less warlike nature, ventured even at that stormy moment, like Mr. Bright in the fervor of the Crimean war, to speak the language of peace. At last more temperate counsels prevailed, and preliminaries of peace were agreed to, on condition that Mr. Lovejoy should leave the position that he so unwarrantably occupied, and speak either from his own seat or from the Clerk's desk. An English Senator would probably have been not a little abashed at playing so prominent a part in such a scene, but Mr. Lovejoy's nerves were made of sterner stuff. He had a speech to deliver, and that speech he proceeded to make, without being in any way discomposed by the tumult through which he had just passed. He finished his denunciation of Slavery and slaveholders, utterly regardless of the running fire of comments and interjections with which he was greeted by the Southerners from the other side of the House.

Such is a picture of a scene in Congress on the 5th of this present month of April, 1860, and such scenes are enacted in the Legislatures of some thirty States, to say nothing of the Territories, which make up the great American Union. Great indeed has been the change since the days of the first Congress, when it met in doubt and uncertainty to rally the energies and stimulate the exertions of a great nation struggling into independence. Those great men would have as little dreamt of interrupting their deep and solemn deliberations for the emancipation of their country by scenes like the one we have just described as the Roman Senate when it awaited the approach of the Gauls, or the English House of Commons when King Charles came to seize on the Five Members. The American Revolution was led by gentlemen of honor, of high courage, and of education, and there was as little likelihood of a vulgar brawl taking place in the halls of the first Congress as beneath the splendid roof of our own House of Lords. Whence has arisen the difference? The answer is only too plain; the institutions of Washington are gone, and with them the manners and habits of the men who created them. The tide of Democracy has swept over the land, and leveled everything that stood above itself. The rich have learnt to be ashamed of their wealth, the learned of their knowledge, the refined of their refinement. The standard of everything is altered, the tone of everything is lowered. Lord Grey gave on Thursday night to the House of Lords an admirable picture of the present political state of America. Indeed, we do not know that we have ever seen the same subject treated with equal power and completeness. He did, we believe, no more than justice to the American nation when he showed that the present state of things does not arise from the deliberate choice of the multitude; it is far too bad for that. The real cause of the lamentable scenes which disgrace American public life is, that the franchise is so low and the constituencies are so large that they do not really exercise the power of which they are the nominal depositaries. The task of selecting the member for whom the votes of the party are to be given devolves, not on the mass of his constituents, unknown to him and to each other, but on certain obscure and irresponsible persons, whose business it is to relieve the elector from the care of considering who is to be his representative. The franchise may be leased out like any other possession, and the people, as it would seem, are very indulgent landlords. Content to trust their interests often in the hands of the most worthless of the community, they do not even inquire the name of the man whose voting ticket is placed in their hands. They never see him, he never sees them. Between him and them there is as little sympathy, intimacy or intercourse as between them and the member for any other electoral district. The Popular Sovereignty has become a name, and is handed over to be exercised by an oligarchy of men obscure, uneducated and corrupt, who have forced or intrigued themselves into the position of commanding the suffrages of the people. Therefore it is not to be wondered that they bestow their patronage on men of their own class, and that they should brawl and fight according to the manners and habits of the class from which they spring. America has no need of ostracism. Ostracism was leveled at dangerous greatness, and her institutions effectually provide that no such greatness shall exist. No orator ought to be allowed to assume, even from the hustings or the platform, that the institutions of America have succeeded, and that the only question is whether we posses the same elements of success as America. The institutions of America have failed, and failed most signally, with every possible advantage in their favor. They have failed mainly for two reasons—because the franchise has been too low, and the constituencies of the electoral districts have been too numerous. It is at least not unreasonable that when we propose to lower our electoral franchise, and greatly to increase the numbers included in each constituent body, we should require some security that the result of the change will not be to assimilate our condition to that of America. That security we have not yet received, and until we do so we act prudently in hesitating before we venture on a step which, if it alters very materially our existing institutions, must alter them very materially for the worse.

The Late Fight for the Championship.

From the London Times, April 21.

Yesterday the friends of Heenan and Sayers again met at the office of the referee in the Strand, to endeavor to arrive at some decision that may bring the late contest to a satisfactory and amicable conclusion. Sayers again attended, now bearing scarcely any tokens of the battle on his face. His arm, however, is still powerless, and, indeed, has got rather worse than better, the whole limb being swollen, discolored, and painful in the extreme. As on the previous occasion, Heenan was not present, and no reason was given for his absence, though it was known that it did not arise from any disfigurement preventing his coming out, though his left hand is still sore and contused. Heenan's representatives put in a claim to the silver belt of the Champion of England, which they consider was virtually lost by Sayers before the fight was stopped. As a matter of course this claim is utterly repudiated by Sayers' friends, while the Champion himself at once suggested that, if the least doubt existed, they had better fight again. This was also proposed with equal alacrity by Heenan's friends, and, for a time, there seemed every probability that another day would have to be named for a final contest when each man was well. After a while, however, a better spirit seemed to prevail, and the friends of both men gradually grew unanimous in their wishes that the affair might be settled in a kinder way, and that the men—who had already proved their unflinching courage and endurance so well—might not be obliged to fight again. Eventually, a kind of understanding to this effect was come to on both sides, and, though no details were settled, there seems little doubt but that the matter will end where it is. The angry spirit which on the day of the contest appeared to influence the American supporters of Heenan, and which led to most partial accounts of the struggle being transmitted to America, has in a great measure passed off, and there is no doubt that by the next mail more justice will be done to Sayers. The great redeeming virtue of the prize ring—a love of fair play—was certainly never better exemplified than in the recent contest, and the fact of both men strongly claiming to have won when the fight was stopped of itself, proves how equally the scale was balanced to the last.

In the interval which has elapsed since Tuesday, the referee has received some hundreds of letters from all parts of the Kingdom, inclosing money for a testimonial to Sayers. Nearly all the letters are anonymous, and state that the writers never saw a prize fight, nor even heard of Sayers till the recent contest, and they simply send their individual contributions to him to mark their admiration of his courage in defending the English belt against such fearful odds. As we have said, they come from all parts of England, Ireland and Scotland, and contain sums varying from a shilling's worth of postage stamps up to notes for £25.

FROM WASHINGTON

THE APPROACHING CONVENTIONS.

HOPES AND FEARS OF THE POLITICIANS

Private-bill Day in the House.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

Washington, Sunday, May 6.

The city is full of delegates, homewards bound. Mr. Douglas' friends are sanguine. One delegate offered to bet $10,000 that Douglas would be nominated and elected.

Republicans are busily caucussing, and the friends of the different aspirants are actively engaged in arranging combinations. Senator Wade and Mr. Hickman will be presented as a winning ticket in case Mr. Seward is overslaughed.

Gov. Chase is here canvassing his chances, and has many warm friends, but indications are that he will stand no chance at Chicago.

Sam. Houston seems to be mostly spoken of for Union nomination.

THE NEW-YORK WAREHOUSE INVESTIGATION.

Mr. Barr has issued a call for a meeting to-morrow of his Special Committee on Public Warehouses in New-York, and summoned a large number of witnesses from your City.

ARMY INTELLIGENCE.

By authority from the Adjutant General's office, a detachment of the seventy-eight recruits for six companies of First Cavalry, stationed in the Department of Texas, left Jefferson Barracks under command of Lieut. Colburn, Adjutant of the First Cavalry.

Leave of absence for sixty days has been granted to Assistant Surgeon Bartholomew.

Lieut. Molinard, of the Second Artillery, will join his company at Fort Ridgeley, at the end of three months.

Lieut. Tipton, of the Third Artillery, will report without delay to the Superintendent of the Eastern Department of the General Recruiting Service for temporary duty at Fort Columbus.

Q.

From Another Correspondent.

DEATH OF TOWNSEND HARRIS.

Washington, Sunday, May 6.

The death of Hon. Townsend Harris, United States Minister at Yedo, Japan, is confirmed by private advices, and it is thought proper and proposed that our Government shall take fit notice of the calamity. Mr. Harris' services as a diplomat have been frequently applauded by our wisest statesmen.

REPUBLICAN MOVEMENTS.

The Republicans of this city are preparing for an active canvass in the coming city election here. They held a very enthusiastic meeting last Friday evening, and will continue them every week until next November. They will put in nomination for Mayor Richard Wallach, Esq., a conservative American-Republican. He was formerly Marshal of the District under President Taylor. His friends claim that he was fairly elected Mayor last year, but was cheated out of it by fraudulent votes and returns. The Democrats will run two tickets, probably Berrett and Magruder. The Republicans here, especially the Radicals, are greatly incensed at the course of Mr. Greeley and the Tribune, their especial organ, in relation to Judge Douglas, and it is proposed to start a new Republican organ in New York. Moneyed men offer to invest their capital in the enterprise, and Mr. Greeley is loudly denounced, particularly by the Western Republicans.

THE DELEGATES TO THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTIONS.

About two-thirds of the New-York State delegation in Congress have been absent the past two weeks. Nearly all of them returned last evening.

THE NATIONAL UNION CONVENTION.

There are many of the delegates to the Baltimore Union Convention in town. The leading candidates with them are Mr. Bell of Tennessee, and Houston of Texas. Messrs. Botts, Bates, McLean, and Crittenden will have many warm supporters. Bell and Everett seem to be the favorite ticket; Houston and Crittenden stand next.

THE CHICAGO CONVENTION.

The Republican members of the House will, for the most part, remain away from Chicago during the Convention there. There will probably be objection to Eli Thayer, Representative from Massachusetts, who goes as delegate from Oregon, on the ground that he does not represent the people of that State and supports the doctrine of Squatter Sovereignty. About a dozen members are delegates. Some of these will not attend. A delegate from Virginia to Chicago says it is a mistake that his delegation will go for Seward; Wade will be their preference. Politicians seem to have forgotten that a Convention of Germans, composed of delegates from every State in the Union, meets at Chicago on the same day as the Republicans. They are mostly for Seward.

THE DEMOCRATIC FEUD.

The factions of the Democracy have given notice that they shall to-morrow open a guerilla fight upon each other in both branches of Congress. Jefferson Davis has the floor in the Senate and will open the battle. It is expected that Douglas will answer. Anti-Douglas men openly boast that they will buy one-third of his friends before June through the Administration.

P.

From the Associated Press.

Washington, Saturday, May 5.

Marshal Johnson, of the Northern district of Ohio, has been before the Covode Committee. He corroborates Mr. Bean's testimony about negotiations for five thousand dollars of Wendell's printing fund for the support of newspapers to sustain the Administration Lecompton policy in Ohio. Bean testifies that Senator Fitch gave him to understand that the amount was in his (Fitch's) possession, ready to be paid over when negotiations were completed. The Senator testifies to having talked with Johnson on the subject, but does not remember conversing with Bean. The English bill having passed, and settled the Kansas question, the Democratic Press generally in Ohio came to the support of the Government policy, and negotiations wore dropped. Senator Fitch is Chairman of the Committee on Printing. The Chief Clerk of Naval Storekeeper at Philadelphia, in his testimony, gave the names of three or four persons who received pay as clerks in his office, but performed no duties. One was the editor of the Philadelphia Argus. The pay of the same office is now given to an influential bricklayer, who likewise renders no service.

The War Department has not ordered all the troops removed from Utah. Ten companies, comprising from 800 to 1,000 men, will remain there, and will be amply sufficient to protect the people from outbreaks. Gen. Johnson had not yet arrived here.

Washington, Sunday, May 6.

The hotels are thronged with the returning delegates, and animated discussions are going on as to the prospects of the Baltimore and Richmond Conventions. Large numbers paid their respects to Mr. Douglas this afternoon.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Washington, Saturday, May 5.

Mr. Train, of Massachusetts, (Rep.,) asked leave to report a resolution providing for a watchman to protect the equestrian statue of Washington. He stated that there was $17,000 remaining of the amount appropriated for the inauguration ceremonies, and it was desirable and necessary to employ watchmen till Congress shall make permanent arrangements for protecting the grounds.

Mr. Crawford, of Georgia, (Dem.,) objected. You will not be happy till this money is spent. [Laughter.] There is not a man on the Continent who would interfere with the statue or do it harm.

A Voice—"That's so"

Mr. Eliott, of Massachusetts, (Rep.,) asked leave to introduce a resolution requesting the President to communicate to the House the information recently received respeccting the Chinese Coolie-trade.

Mr. Jones, of Georgia, (Dem.,) objected.

The House resumed the consideration of private bills.

Among those passed was one authorizing Capts. Hudson and Sands to receive a snuff-box and medal from the British Government, as a testimonial to their services in laying the Atlantic cable.

The House went into Committee, and Mr. Trimble of Ohio, (Rep.,) briefly advocated the protection of domestic manufactures.

No other gentlemen desiring to speak, the Committee rose.

Adjourned.

The Albany Journal says: "We understand that Gov. Morgan, the efficient Chairman of the Republican National Committee, since its inauguration at Pittsburgh in 1855, will be in attendance at Chicago. It will be his duty, of course, to call the Convention to order."

LAW REPORTS.

Malfeasance of the Marshal's Officers—Discharge of Two of Them.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT—BEFORE JUDGE SMALLEY.

At the opening of Court on Saturday morning, Mr. Dwight, the assistant of the United States District Attorney, read to the Court the following affidavits:

Southern District of New-York, ss.:—James F. Dwight, being assistant of the United States District Attorney, being duly sworn, says: That on the second day of May instant he gave certain papers to James L. Degraw about a quarter or half-past three o'clock P. M. with instructions to take them up to the Charlotte E Tay, a vessel then lying at the foot of Tenth-street, North River, and then deliver them to Deputy Marshals Thompson and Donnell, who he supposed were on that vessel. These papers related to the charge against the brig Storm King, suspected of being fitted out to engage in the slave-trade and to the arrest of the said brig; that Degraw took the papers with certain verbal instructions from deponent and went away; that in the evening following, about 8 o'clock Theodore Rynders and Henry Munn, officers attached to the Marshal's Office, came to deponent and said that they had failed to catch the Storm King; that Rynders said they got the papers in the afternoon and immediately went down rapidly to the Battery, but could find nothing of the brig; that they tried to get a tug to go down the Bay, but could find none, and were obliged to return without having accomplished anything; that deponent told Rynders to give him the papers, and that Rynders then delivered to him the said papers which deponent had sent up to the Tay by Degraw in the afternoon, and further says not.

JAMES F. DWIGHT.

Sworn to before me this 4th day of May, 1860.
JOSEPH BRIDGHAM, United States Commissioner.

James L. Degraw, an employe in the Custom-house at New-York, residing in Brooklyn, being duly sworn, says: That on the 2d of May, 1860, he went up to the United States District-attorney's office, about 20 minutes past 3 P. M., to give some information concerning the brig Storm King, which that day had cleared for Rio Zaire, on the Coast of Africa, and which was suspected of being fitted out to engage in the slave-trade; that he informed Mr. Dwight, one of the assistants of the District-attorney, whom he found at the office, what he came for, and was answered by Mr. Dwight that information had previously been received, and the papers were ready for the arrest but having that moment been to the Marshal's office to have the papers served there was no one to be found there; Mr. Dwight then informed deponent that the two deputies of the Marshal, Mr. Thompson and Mr. Donnell, were, as he believed, then on board the Charlotte E. Tay, a vessel seized a few days before, and then lying at the foot of Tenth street, North River, and that if the papers could be got to them in time, they would stop the vessel, in accordance with previous arrangements which he had made; deponent then said he would take the papers up to the deputies on the Charlotte E. Tay, and he received, with certain instructions, the papers, one of which he understood was a monition for the arrest of the Storm King, and went immediately up to the Tay; on arriving at the Tay, he asked the person in charge who were the Deputy Marshals, saying he believed Mr. Thompson was one of the names; the person addressed said he was the Deputy Marshal, and it was all right; deponent then gave the person, whom he has since been informed and believes to be Henry Munn, an officer attached to the Marshal's office, the papers received from Mr. Dwight, and told him that they were for the arrest of the Storm King, which had cleared and was suspected of going on a slaving voyage, and also told him where the vessel could be found, and asked him if he would take a steam-tug, and Munn said he probably would. Deponent then left the Tay in company with Munn, who said he would go to "Dory," by which deponent understood he meant Theodore Rynders, who is another officer attached to the Marshal's office, and who was, as deponent is informed and believes, one of the officers having charge of the Tay since its seizure. After going a few blocks in company, Munn told deponent that it would be all right, they would attend to it, and deponent left him and went home; that it was about four o'clock when deponent reached the Tay and saw Munn.

JAMES F. DEGRAW.

Sworn to this 4th day of May, 1860, before me,
JOSEPH BRIDGHAM, United States Commissioner.

Southern District of New-York, ss.:—Edwin A. Brooks, residing at No. 140 Degraw-street, Brooklyn, being duly sworn, deposes and says: That he is the captain of the steam-tug Relief, belonging to the port of New-York; that at 20 minutes before 5 o'clock on May 2, Theodore Rynders and a person whom he is informed and believes to be Henry Munn, both, as he is informed and believes, officers attached to the United States Marshal's office, came to Pier No. 6 East River, where his tug was lying, and engaged him to go down the bay to board the Storm King, a vessel then being towed down by the tug Jacob Bell, saying they were United States officers, and they suspected the Storm King was a slaver. That they proceeded with this deponent in the Relief down the bay, and overtook the vessel Storm King in the Narrows in tow of the Jacob Bell. That Rynders hailed the Storm King and ordered her to heave to. The Relief then ran alongside, and the two officers, Rynders and Munn, boarded the Storm King. They remained on board about a quarter of an hour, and deponent saw Rynders talking with various persons on the vessel, and once descend to the cabin, and also saw Rynders have a pistol in his hand while he was talking on deck. That finally the officers Rynders and Munn returned to the Relief, and the Storm King continued out to sea. That Rynders told deponent after returning to the Relief that they had made a mistake, and requested deponent not to say anything about the affair. That they reached the pier again about 6¼ o'clock. That Rynders paid deponent for the tug; and further says not.

E. A. BROOKS.

Sworn to this 5th day of May, 1860, before me.
JOSEPH BRIDGHAM, United States Commissioner.

Joseph Thompson, being duly sworn, says: That he is the First Deputy Marshal of the United States for this District; that Theodore Rynders and Henry Munn are Constables attached to the United States Courts in this District; that neither of them were deputized to serve any process against the brig Storm King, or received any instructions in the matter; that the Marshal is now temporarily absent from New-York, and that deponent, as head of the office, told Theodore Rynders, some days ago, and previous to the 2d day of May, that he (this deponent) was going to take charge of and depute the officers to execute any process which was issued against any vessels engaged in the slave trade, and that no one else was to execute such process; that no report of the detention of the Storm King was made to deponent, by either Rynders or Munn, till about 5 P. M. on the 3d of May, although before that time deponent had seen both Rynders and Munn for a long time, and had conversations with them on business matters; that on the 3d of May, about 5 P. M., Rynders came to deponent's house, and in a conversation with him admitted that he (Rynders) and Henry Munn had gone down the Bay in a steam tug about five P. M., on the 2d of May, and had overhauled the Storm King in the Narrows; that they boarded the Storm King, and that he (Rynders) drew a pistol from his pocket, though he did not present it to any one; that he (Rynders) was offered $1,000 by some one in the vessel to let it go; that he demanded $1,500, which was finally promised to be paid in New-York the next day; that they then permitted the vessel to go and she proceeded to sea, and Rynders and Munn returned to New-York; that Henry Munn told deponent that he received the papers from a Custom-house officer on the Tay and went to Theodore Rynders' house with them; that he (Munn) pointed out to Rynders the want of some signature to the papers, and that Rynders said, "Never mind, we'll attend to it;" that each constable is specially informed that they are not to execute any process unless specially deputized for that purpose, and that Rynders and Munn were so informed when appointed.

JOSEPH THOMPSON.

Sworn to before me, this 4th day of May, 1860.
JOSEPH BRIDGHAM, U. S. Commissioner.

After reading these affidavits, Mr. Dwight moved the Court for the following order:

"On reading affidavits of James F. Dwight, James L. Degraw, Edwin A. Brooks and Joseph Thompson, charging that Theodore Rynders and Henry Munn, constables of the United States Courts of this District, and officers attached to the Marshal's office, were guilty of grossly improper conduct as officers in permitting the brig Storm King, which was charged with being fitted out to engage in the Slave-trade, to escape from port, and to proceed on an unlawful voyage. On motion of the United States District Attorney, it is hereby ordered that the Marshal of the Southern District of New-York show cause forthwith, or in case of the absence of the said Marshal that the Chief Deputy Marshal show cause forthwith, why he should not discharge the said Theodore Rynders and Henry Munn from their offices as constables of the United States Court of this District, and from serving in any official capacity in the said Marshal's office in future."

Judge Smalley—Take your order, Sir. If there is any power in the Court, the matter will not end here.

Mr. Thompson, the Deputy Marshal, being in Court, the order was delivered to him as soon as signed. Mr. Thompson then stated to the Court that on reading the affidavits yesterday afternoon he had discharged the officers, as required by this order.

Judge Smalley—It was a very proper course for the Marshal to pursue.

Mr. Dwight said that he would prepare an order to that effect, to be entered in the course of the day. The order was afterwards entered, reciting the affidavits and the return of the Marshal, and ordering that Rynders and Munn "be discharged as Constables, Bailiffs or Tipstaves of the Courts of the United States in this District, and forbidden to perform any act in the said Courts as such officers, or in the office of the Marshal of this District."

The Watrous Case Again.

Musina vs. Stillman et al.—This was the application of Mr. Allen, one of the defendants, for an order directing that a commission be issued to have his testimony taken in London.

The application was based upon the affidavit of applicant setting forth that he had removed his family and residence to London, and expected to live in that city for the future. Mr. Allen expected to sail on Monday, (to-day,) and made the application to enable him to go. The motion was heard by Justice MULLEN, at Chambers, and strenuously opposed.

The motion was now denied, and an order entered directing the examination to commence on Monday, (to-day,) and go on until completed.

Interesting Habeas Corpus Case.

WANTS TO BE A "BUTCHER."

Application of Joachim Spier.—This was a writ of habeas corpus, returnable before Judge BRADY of the Common Pleas. The relator is a journeyman carpenter, residing at No. 552 Ninth-avenue. The petition sets forth that about six weeks ago Jacob Meyer came to his house and offered him a dollar per week for the services of his boy, a lad of nine or ten years of age. The offer was accepted, and the boy went to learn the trade of a butcher, that being the occupation of the employer. Meyer, however, it is alleged, did not pay the dollar a week for the labor of the lad—refusing not only to pay the hire, but also declining to give up the boy, as he was requested to do by the relator. This application was to recover possession of the child.

The respondent made no return to the writ, resting his case solely upon the asseverations of the boy. Jacob Spier the lad in question said, upon being interrogated by the Court, that he would rather remain with Meyer—he wanted to learn to be a butcher. Mr. Meyer was a good man, and he (boy) liked to work for him.

Judge BRADY, upon the suggestion of counsel, determined to indenture the boy to some respectable party, without ordering him into the custody of either relator or respondent. Accordingly it was proposed to indenture young Spier to one Lewis Koll then present, and who desired to adopt him. But it so happened that Koll was a carpenter—and when this proposition was laid before Jacob, he indignantly spurned it, expressing his intention to be a butcher; and at this moment—his stout little self assuming a stubborn perpendicularity—he looked very like one. It was now evident that the wishes of Young America must be consulted and respected, and it was straightway determined to postpone the matter until Saturday next, at which time Judge BRADY requested the parties interested to have some respectable butcher who might want the lad present, for the purpose of making out indentures securing to the scion the felicitous occupation he wished to adopt, and was determined to pursue.

The lad in question was fantastically arrayed in the regular butcher dress—a calico shirt, open at the neck, and the usually full breeches. With this toggery he seemed particularly pleased, and was likely more infatuated with his robes than in love with the business.

Daniel Leroy for applicant.

MONDAY, May 7—A. M.

The Foreign Trade of the past week, at the port of New-York, was comparatively moderate in the Import entries, and, as usual in the month of May, quite active in the Export of Specie. The latter amounts to $2,355,117, as against $2,169,197 same week last season. The Export of Domestic Produce and Miscellaneous Goods amounted to $1,566,690, against $1,714,027 same week last season. The Imports, including the Dry Goods table in our last paper, were $3,651,835, against $4,330,758 same week last year. The principal shipments of Gold and Silver were as follows:

Tuesday, May 1—Hamburg steamer	$217,000
Saturday, May 5—Vanderbilt	1,539,368
Saturday, May 5—City of Baltimore	565,918
By sailing vessels	32,831
Total	$2,355,117

The Sub-Treasury balance now stands $7,049,143, against $7,558,723 at the close of the previous week. And in addition to this transfer of $519,000 to the Banks, the receipts by express from the South and West have been liberal. The interior balances are now pretty generally in favor of New-York, the accounts with Philadelphia and Baltimore having been recently reversed, while that with Boston is equalized. The receipts of Mexican dollars are arriving by express overland instead of coast steamers as heretofore. The Bank Averages to be made up this afternoon will probably show no decline on the Specie item, though the average will be a falling one, in consequence of the shipments of Saturday. The California steamer of April 20 will be due in the course of the present week, with about $1,230,000 for New-York. The Foreign Exchanges were placed at 109¾ on London, and f.5.13¾ on Paris at 60 days' sight, while the sight terms on both points were made relatively cheaper to the buyer in consequence of a sharp competition between some of the leading exporters of Bullion. Several large Banking houses availed of sight bills made by the Bullion Brokers, instead of shipping Gold on a narrow margin on their own account. The competition for Specie Freights is equally sharp, several of the steamer lines having reduced the cost of delivery on the other side to one eighth of one per cent. So that between the parties engaged in the operation, we have a liberal infusion of checks on demand, in place of Bills at 60 days sight, into our Summer Exchanges with London and Paris. The market for Money undergoes no alteration, the rates continuing at 5@6 ℘ cent. for temporary Loans, and 5½@7 ℘ cent. for Discounts on prime mercantile paper, 60 days to 6 months. Occasional exceptions are made at 5 per cent. on very choice 30@60 days acceptances.

The Stock Market closed steady on Saturday afternoon, after rather lower prices than on Friday had been made on some short sales, predicated on the calculation that the active export demand for Specie may possibly influence adversely the course of speculation this Summer. This impression on the market, however, is by no means general to either the Bond or Share list, and at the close of the week there was nothing like a decided anxiety manifested to sell. The market for the Railway Stocks has a strong support in the returns of the export traffic from the West, and the intimations by telegraph of what is going on in that direction early in May. The New-York lines participate, of course, in the improved movement to and from Chicago, and although slower in making up their traffic returns, it is pretty generally understood that both the Central and Erie are doing very much better than last Spring; first, in a larger gross traffic; and secondly, in the resulting profit of the business, to which the good understanding between the two managements materially contributes. There is a continued demand for Erie Shares from abroad, and the price has attained $18. The Mortgages of the Company are firm, but in less demand for the later issues than some weeks ago. The Shares of the Central are, as usual, the barometer of speculation, and the fact that they have varied scarcely ½ ℘ cent. within the week, shows a steadier confidence in the market than might have been anticipated, after the great rise and excitement early in April. The Rock Island Shares have improved rapidly since the resumption of dividends, but more, perhaps, on the increased traffic on the line within the past week or two than from any other cause. The Michigan Roads, and the Galena and Toledo, are feeling a similar influence. The new administration of the Michigan Southern are especially encouraged by the active share of business, and the good condition in which they find the Road. The New-York Directors returned home last week, and the Receiver is now in the City. The demand continues for Panama Stock, at the further advance of 5 ℘ cent. during the week, and it is noteworthy that the offerings of the Board are in smaller parcels than when the price fluctuated from 130 to 135 ℘ cent. some weeks ago. The feeling in Pacific Mail has become steadier, and the Stock is held at the recent advance to 105 ℘ cent., with more apparent firmness than usually marked it while selling below 90 ℘ cent. In State Stocks business rather dragged through the week, prices finally leaving off about the same as they started, or a fraction lower. In Railway Bonds also there is less movement, but no important difference in prices. The issues of the Central, Hudson, Harlem, Erie, Illinois Central, and other prominent lines West, are generally firm.

According to the Custom-house returns of the Trade at this port for the ten months of the current fiscal year, which we made up and presented in tabular form some days since, the Import entries at New-York from July 1, 1859, to April 30, ultimo, exclusive of Specie, amounted to	$195,421,000

Add one week in May	3,651,835
Total since July 1	$199,072,835
Against same time last year	175,951,758
Increase this fiscal year	$23,121,077

The same tables make the Export clearances of Domestic Produce and Miscellaneous Goods, including Foreign articles reëxported, from 1st July to 30th April, ultimo

	$64,674,000
Add one week in May	1,566,690
Total to date	$66,240,690
Against same time last year	50,180,127
Increase to date	$16,060,563

The same tables make the Export of Specie from

1st July to 30th April	$43,727,000
Add one week in May	2,355,117
Total to date	46,082,117
Against same time last year	30,091,197
Increase to date	$15,990,920

The shipments of Cotton to Foreign States from the Southern ports, of the present season, to second week in April are:

3,186,000 bales, averaging $50	$159,300,000
Against 2,368,000 last year, avera'g $53 75.	127,280,000
Increased Export to date this year	$32,020,000
The total Export of Cotton the last year was 3,005,000 bales, of the value of	$161,434,923

—giving an average value of about $53 75 to the bale, while we take $50 as the average of the present season, for the convenience of comparison. The early average run of prices for both years was much the same, but the immediate currency, say for Orleans Middling, is lower than at this time last season.

Average increase		22 ℘ cent.

The ratio of increase over last Spring will from the early indications in May, reach 30 ℘ cent. on the returns of the present month. The probabilities are in favor of $50,000 on the Michigan Southern; quite as much, if not more, on the Burlington and Quincy, and $30,000 on the Rock Island, with nearly corresponding figures from the other lines. The source of this improved traffic may be traced in part to the enlarged movement of Grain into Chicago. A dispatch from the Rock Island Superintendent, received on Saturday, reports fifty-one thousand bushels over the line in two days. The total weekly receipts of Wheat and Corn into Chicago are threefold greater than this time last Spring.

The traffic of the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy Railroad line, is thus particularized:

De Borben, in the City of Reading, the property known as the Reading Steam Forge, in the said city. Said forge is substantially built, and completely equipped with all the modern improvements, including a 7-ton Nasmyth steam-hammer and three Kirk steam hammers, each with heating-furnaces and boilers attached. TO ADVERTISERS.

The enlargement of the circulation of the Times is at the present moment so rapid as to render it imperative that advertisements intended for the daily issue should be sent in at the earliest possible moment. Announcements which fail to reach the office before nine o'clock P. M., lose all the advantages of classification under the heads to which readers are accustomed to refer. It is, therefore, quite as important to the advertisers as to ourselves, to have that hour the latest for the reception of their notices.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The steamship Bohemian, of the Montreal line, from Liverpool on the 25th ult., calling at Queenstown the following day, reached Farther Point last evening. The news is of interest. Heenan, the American champion in the recent fight, had addressed a letter to the Referee in the late contest, demanding the belt or a new trial; and citing the authorities of the Prize Ring to sustain the justice of his claim. The American shipmasters at Liverpool had contributed handsomely to a purse for Heenan's benefit. There is no thing of moment in our English advices. The suppression of the Sicilian insurrection is reported from Naples; and from Spain we learn of the capture of Count de Montemolin and his nephew. What disposition should be made of the noble captives is a question of hardly less perplexity to the Spanish Press than to the Spanish Government. The news from China is that the rebellion continues to spread with alarming rapidity.

Correspondence from Laguayra, which we find in our Havana files, furnishes news from Venezuela to April 7. The progress of pacification throughout the State was hopefully rapid. Since their defeat at Coplet, the insurgents had been unable to make head against the Government troops; and large numbers had availed themselves of the offered amnesty to lay down their arms. The extraordinary powers of the Federal Executive had been continued by a resolution of the Govermental Council. Señor Paolo de las Casas had resigned the portfolio of Hacienda to act as Deputy for Caracas.

An arrival at New-Orleans from Vera Cruz furnishes news from the latter port to April 27. The Liberals had secured several fresh victories in the interior, and strong efforts were making by the European diplomatic agents to effect an armistice. The rumored return of Gen. Comonfort caused serious apprehensions among both factions.

The Cahawba, with Havana dates to April 30, arrived here on Saturday. Much satisfaction is felt at the intelligence that a commercial treaty is about to be concluded between Spain and this Government.

The Senate was not in session on Saturday. In the House, Mr. Train, of Massachusetts, asked leave to report a resolution providing for a private watchman to protect the statue of Washington. Leave was refused. Mr. Eliot, of Massachusetts, was also denied leave to introduce a resolution calling upon the President for any recent information relative to the coolie trade. The House then devoted itself until an early adjournment to private bills.

A numerous meeting of the Democratic Party in Augusta, Georgia, was held on Friday night, when the orators of the occasion were Messrs. King, of Missouri, and Flournoy, of Arkansas, partisans of Mr. Douglas. Their speeches were well received, and action was taken with a view to the election of delegates to the Baltimore Convention.

Last evening the initial proceedings in the Anniversaries of the Religious and Philanthropic Societies, which make this City the place of their yearly meetings, were held in many of our churches. If the attendance at these preliminary exercises be an augury of the prevalent interest, the business of the week promises to be of unusual moment and value.

Rev. Dr. Cheever preached the annual sermon before the Church Anti-Slavery Society, at the Church of the Puritans, Rev. Daniel Worth, lately imprisoned in North Carolina on a charge of circulating incendiary Abolition documents, occupied the pulpit, made the closing prayer, and pronounced the benediction. Dr. Cheever took occasion to allude frequenly to the difficulties in his Church.

The anniversary sermon of the New-York Bible Society was preached in Rev. Dr. Adams' Church, corner of Twenty-fourth-street and Madison-avenue, by Rev. T. S. Hastings. At the request of the Society the discourse will be printed in pamphlet form.

Samuel W. Fisher, D. D., delivered the annual discourse before the Society of Inquiry of the Union Theological Seminary. The Church was well filled, and the deepest attention pervaded the congregation during the delivery of Dr. Fisher's remarks. Dr. Fisher thought that the Anglo-Saxon race was especially called by God, and peculiarly fitted, by their every idiosyncracy, to spread the Gospel to all lands.

The Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions received their Twenty-third Annual Report, and listened to a sermon from Dr. Craven, at the New Brick Church on Fifth-avenue. The report represents a prosperous state of the finances of the Board, the receipts during the year being $237,982 28, an increase of about $25,000 over last year. Sixty-six missionaries have been employed during the year, and their labors have met with a good degree of success.

The anniversary sermon in behalf of the Society for Ameliorating the Condition of the Jews was delivered in presence of a rather limited audience, by Rev. Dr. Hickok, of Scranton, Penn. The annual report was presented by Rev. Dr. Pinney, the Secretary, from which it was shown that the gross receipts of the Society for the fiscal year have been $12,783 36, the total outlay, 10,063 35, and the balance now on hand, $2,720 01.

The annual sermon before the American Seamen's Friend Society was preached in the Church of the Pilgrims, Brooklyn, by Rev. Walter Clark. The necessity of Christianizing the sailor was demonstrated, both in the religious and worldly aspects of the subject. The anniversary meeting of the Society will be held in Dr. Cheever's Church this evening.

The annual sermon of the American and Foreign Christian Union was preached at the Tabernacle Church in Sixth-avenue, by Rev. W. Hague, D. D. The anniversary meeting of the Society will be held at St. Paul's Methodist Church, Fourth-avenue, to-morrow evening, when addresses of a more than usually interesting nature, from eminent clergymen of this and other cities, are anticipated.

The subject of African Civilization was discussed by Rev. H. H. Garnet, in a sermon at the Shiloh Presbyterian Church. There was a full house, and earnest attention.

The Methodist General Conference at Buffalo met at the usual hour on Saturday, Bishop Morris in the Chair. A resolution was offered by Mr. Hill, of Erie, for the appointment by the Bishops of a Committee of fifteen, to try the appeal of Alva Wright, of Ohio. An amendment was offered by Mr. Cowles, of Minnesota, that the General Conference by delegations appoint all Committees on appeals, in order to relieve the Bishops of all liability to the charge of exercising an undue influence, as has hitherto often been the case. Mr. Cowles meant no reflection on the bishops; he simply desired to avoid the possibility of any such imputation being cast upon them by the enemies of the Church. Bishop Simpson said the amendment would relieve the Bishops very materially, and he hoped a General Court of Appeals would be appointed to try all cases. The Bishops had conferred on this subject, and were anxious to be relieved of this duty. An amendment was finally adopted, that the Committee on Episcopacy appoint the Committee asked for, subject to the ratification of the Conference. Bishop Simpson rose to a question of privilege. As an officer of the Church, he was somewhat sensitive of his official character. The Bishops had been charged with corruption. If such a charge had really been made, he hoped it might be investigated. Mr. Cowles had no recollection of saying that the Bishops had been charged with corruption, but the Northern Independent newspaper had charged that the Bishops exercised an undue influence over the deliberations of the Conference. The rest of the proceedings were of an uninteresting nature.

Mr. Dwight, the Assistant United States District-Attorney, at the opening of the United States Circuit Court on Saturday morning, read several affidavits touching the conduct of Theodore Rynders and Henry Munn, two of the attachés of the United States Marshal's office, in the case of the alleged slave brig Storm King, which these officers boarded, while she was escaping from this port on Wednesday last, and permitted her afterwards to go to sea, under suspicious circumstances. Mr. Dwight moved for the discharge of the delinquent officers from their functions as Constables of the Court, and for an order that the Marshal show cause why they should not be dismissed from that office. Judge Smalley granted the order, and Mr. Thompson, the Deputy Marshal, returned to the Court that the two officers had already been discharged. The Judge remarked that, if there was any force in the law, these gentlemen would hear further of the matter. It is hinted that they will be proceeded against for participating in or conniving at the Slave-trade. The affidavits will be published on Monday. It is but an act of justice to Marshal Rynders to state that he is temporarily absent from the City.

The May term of the Court of General Sessions commences to-day, with a heavy Calendar. In order to clear the City Prison as much as possible before the setting in of the hot weather, Recorder Barnard and the City Judge will hold separate Courts during a part, at least, of the term.

At an adjourned meeting, held last Saturday at No. 35 Pearl-street, of merchants having under consideration the project of establishing a Produce Exchange, a report was adopted in favor of purchasing the property bounded by Pearl, Whitehall, Water and Moore streets, for $155,000; possession thereof to be had on the 1st of June. Nine trustees were selected, and power accorded them to proceed with the organization of the Exchange. Subscriptions amounting to $170,000 have already been received.

A largely-attended indignation-meeting of the citizens of Castleton, S. I., was held at Factoryville, on Saturday evening, for the purpose of considering what measures should be taken with reference to the destruction and theft of the ballot-box on the evening of the recent town election. Speeches were made by Col. Barratt, G. W. Curtis, Lot C. Clark, and others, and an Executive Committee appointed, with power to take the necessary steps to organize the town, which has been so outrageously deprived of its officers.

The Stock market was dull on Saturday, and prices ¼@½ ℔ cent. lower on most of the speculative Shares. The Money market steady. The Exchanges on Europe active for Sight Bills on London and Paris made against the export of Specie, which amounted to $2,105,000 by the Vanderbilt and City of Baltimore steamers.

The sales of Cotton amounted to 1,000 bales at steady rates. Flour, Wheat, and Corn were heavy and lower. Rye was in fair demand, as were likewise the principal kinds of Provisions, Molasses, Rice, Tallow, Hay, Hops, Linseed Oil, Tar, Common Resin, and Spirits Turpentine. Sugars were freely purchased. Coffee, Metals, Hides, Leather, Teas, and Candles were lightly dealt in. A moderate business was reported in Whisky. The freight engagements were restricted There were three hundred and eighty-one vessels of all classes in port.

The Presidential Contest.

A telegraphic dispatch announces that delegates are to be chosen in Georgia to represent the Democrats of that State in the Baltimore Convention. This indicates the course that will probably be pursued in all the Southern States whose representatives seceded from the Convention at Charleston. New men will be chosen in their places, so that while the seceding delegates will hold a Convention of their own at Richmond, the "national" Democrats will be represented in the National Convention at Baltimore. This will transfer to the Southern States the intestine strife which led to the explosion at Charleston. The Democratic Party in each of these States will be divided,—the nationals on one side and the secessionists on the other. At Baltimore it is quite likely that Douglas may secure the nomination. His friends announce their purpose to insist upon it:—the new delegates from the South will probably be in his favor,—and he bids fair to reap the advantage of the continued and relentless hostility of the Administration. With all these odds in his favor, his chances must be considered good.

Mr. Forney announces, in the Press, that the resolutions adopted at Charleston simply reaffirmed the Cincinnati Platform—that those pledging the party to abide by the decision of the Supreme Court were not passed. This simplifies the matter still further, though it is by no means impossible that, when the Convention reassembles, some further concession may be made to the South upon this point.

There is one most excellent result likely to follow the Charleston disruption: the question of secession bids fair to be fought out in the Southern States themselves, where it belongs. The issue has been made there, and it should be decided there also. In the Northern States no such question has ever been mooted. Nobody in any Northern State is in favor of disunion,—and any party which might even be suspected of favoring it would be annihilated at the polls. Certain prominent politicians, in Congress and out, have assumed to speak for the slaveholding States, and to threaten secession unless their demands concerning Slavery should be conceded. Their withdrawal from the Convention at Charleston put the issue in a practical shape;—and if they venture to nominate a Presidential candidate of their own, he will run mainly upon that basis. And in every Southern State he will be obliged to contest the field with a National Democrat who is opposed to disunion. The people of the South will then be able to express their real sentiments upon this point, and the result will probably put an end to the clamor of the disunionists, and purify the political atmosphere.

The Conservatives, old Whigs and Unionists, hold their convention at Baltimore this week. In the main their views upon the Slavery question are in harmony with those cherished by the great body of the Republicans. But they deprecate what they consider the sectional character of that organization, and are very anxious to adopt some measures which will bring the border Slave States back to an active political alliance with the North. A very large and influential section of them, moreover, are animated by an intense personal hatred of Mr. Seward, and will be mainly guided by that sentiment in the course they may adopt. This is especially the case with the party in this State; and at their State Convention at Troy, Ex-Gov. Hunt and others declined to bind themselves to abide by the decision of the Baltimore Convention, and caused it to be very distinctly understood that they should take whatever course might seem necessary to defeat the Republican Party. It is probable that the Convention will make a nomination,—but it is not easy to guess at its character. They would probably be glad to nominate Houston, but for the fear that he would damage the Democratic vote more than the Republican. They will probably take ground against all agitation of the Slavery question, and in favor substantially of leaving the matter wholly to the action of the people of the Territories.

The Republican Convention meets at Chicago next week. The Philadelphia Platform, we presume, will be in substance reaffirmed, though there will be some opposition to a renewed declaration, under existing circumstances, in favor of Congressional prohibition of Slavery from the Territories. Five of the Slave States will be represented, and the whole number of members will be 230, or thereabouts. Mr. Seward will have much the largest vote at the outset, as the opposition will be divided. Gov. Chase, Mr. Lincoln, Judge Bates, and Gov. Banks will be voted for, but without any expectation, we presume, of success. Ben Wade begins to be talked about, not only as an available candidate, but as possessing, in a high degree, the special qualities likely to be required for the performance of the duties of the office for the next four years.

It is by no means unusual to hear prominent and influential Democrats express a quasi hope that the Republicans may elect their candidate. They regard their own party as hopelessly demoralized, and believe that nothing will promote its union more than a defeat, which shall convince all its sections of the necessity of mutual concession. They believe, too, that the Republicans would, of necessity, become conservative in their public action, as soon as they should find themselves responsible for the condition of the country,—that internal dissensions would spring up in their ranks, and that they could not retain power beyond a single term. There are very many of the leading Democrats of this State who would not for these reasons deeply regret the election of Mr. Seward; and there are quite as many who, for different but equally cogent reasons, would decidedly prefer it to that of Judge Douglas.

The New-York Slave-Trade.

Judge Smalley, of the United States District Court, and Deputy-Marshal Thompson deserved well of their country on Saturday, by making an example of two deputies, who were convicted of gross misconduct with regard to the Storm King, which lately sailed from this port under strong suspicions of being fitted up for a slave voyage to the Coast of Africa. It appears by the affidavits read by the Assistant District Attorney in making the motion for their dismissal, that, acting on the information of a Custom-house officer named Degraw, as to the character of the vessel, he sent a process for her arrest and detainer to Deputy-Marshal Thompson, who is Acting-Marshal during the absence of Mr. Rynders—who has been serving his country in Charleston—by Degraw, telling him that Thompson was to be found on board a certain vessel in the North River; that Degraw went to the vessel in question and inquired for Thompson, and was addressed by a person who said he was a Deputy Marshal, who took the papers and said it was all right; that this person was Deputy Marshal Munn, who thereupon departed in search of another Deputy, whom he named "Dory"—a term of endearment, it appears, applied by his colleagues to Theodore Rynders, Esquire, a brother of the great "Captain"—and promised that they would attend to it.

It further appears that the two worthies immediately hired a tug, and went in chase of the Storm King, which was then far down the bay, and overhauled her in the Narrows; that they boarded her, and that "Dory" had a fifteen minutes' interview with the Captain in the cabin, which resulted in his coming back to the tug, and telling the owner that they had made a mistake, and requesting him to say nothing about the affair. They made no report of their adventure to Deputy Thompson, their superior, however, until the following day, when Munn informed him that on receiving the papers from Degraw he perceived that neither the signature nor seal of the Court was attached, and called "Dory's" attention to the defect; but that this gentleman, who appears to be full of resources, instead of instantly returning it to the District-Attorney to be rectified, said, "Never mind; we'll attend to it." On the same day, also, "Dory" coolly informed Deputy Marshal Thompson that he had been in pursuit of a slaver and had overhauled her; that her captain, or some one on the vessel, offered him $1,000 to let her go; that he demanded $1,500, and on his terms being agreed to, delivered her up, and left her to proceed on her voyage. Both Munn and Rynders then went to Mr. Dwight, the United States District-Attorney, and told him an entirely new story, which would have been a very good one if there had been a word of truth in it. They said they had received the papers, had gone down to the Battery immediately, but were unable to find a tug to go down the bay, and consequently saw nothing of the slaver.

How Mr. Dwight became aware of the real state of the case does not appear; but as soon as he and Degraw had compared notes, they seem to have made the necessary affidavits, and to have obtained Deputy Marshal Thompson's; but this last named functionary, though he had been since the day previous in possession of Rynders' confession of gross corruption and misconduct, made no move in the matter till he found that Mr. Dwight was taking it up. Then, and only then, did he dismiss Munn and "Dory" from the service.

All these facts came before the Court on Saturday, and an order was forthwith granted, confirming the dismissal of the two culprits from the United States Marshal's Office; and declaring them hereafter incapable of executing any process of the Court. We must not omit to mention, in aggravation of their offence, that they had been repeatedly and clearly instructed that they were not to execute or attempt to execute any process on their own responsibility—or without special instructions from Deputy Marshal Thompson.

There is not much to be said of this affair by way of commentary, except to express the hope that it does not indicate more than it reveals; for we would fain believe that it is not a fair specimen of the state of affairs in that branch of the Administration over which the elder, or at least more notorious, Rynders presides. We could wish—not that it has had any effect on the result, but for the satisfaction of the public mind—that "Dory" had been shown the door immediately on confessing that he had committed a violation of his oath of office by taking a bribe not to execute the process of a United States Court. He was aware of the defect in the papers from the outset, but concealed it from the District-Attorney in order to shield himself afterwards, and appears to have also concealed it from the captain of the slaver in order to extract the $1,500.

On the whole, however, the affair displays even greater stupidity than rascality, and if "Dory" will allow us to offer him some worldly advice, it will be to make his various fabrications "hang together" better the next time he sets about covering up a piece of equal knavery. The only consolation to be derived from the occurrence is to be found in the prompt measures taken by the Assistant District-Attorney and Judge Smalley to punish it.

In these days of general trickery and corruption, we have some difficulty in furbishing up the pleasant belief that there is a place in which knavery in office will be punished on being proved.

One thing, however, is certain—that if we cannot find officers of the law in New-York honest and energetic enough to prevent slavers leaving our ports, we must cease denouncing Lamar, and other Slave-trading "gentlemen" of the South. This port is, beyond question, the head-quarters of the traffic, and on the authorities here devolves the duty of rooting out the nest of malefactors who furnish the ships and money to sustain it.

The Papal Question.

We translate to-day from our foreign files a correspondence which the future historian of our times, let us hope, will peruse with half-incredulous amazement. Thanks to the liberal and open spirit which rules in the domestic as well as in the foreign policy of the Sardinian Government, the letters exchanged between Pius IX. and Victor Emanuel II. on the subject of the annexation of the Roman Legations to Sardinia, have been fearlessly published to the world. The Roman Pope and the Italian King stand forth in this correspondence, each in the light of his own ideas, to be judged by the present age and by posterity. The vague and paltering generalities of denunciation behind which Pope Pius shrouds his notions of justice, propriety, and public right, in his preposterous Bull of Excommunication, find no place in these direct communications with the Prince whose conduct he assumes to judge. Victor Emanuel and Count Cavour, by the firm and dignified clearness with which they put the whole case of the Legations before the Papal Government, drive Pius and Antonelli into the necessity, so dreadful to the wily clerical mind, of answering flatly to the point. And we repeat, that in the faith which no lover of his race can willingly resign—that those who pretend to represent the "author of justice" and the religion of truth may one day be shamed by the enlightened intelligence of the world out of the lust of earthly power and the hypocrisies of temporal ambition—we find ground for hoping that it will be difficult for our children to believe that the name of the "Vicar of Christ" was ever subscribed to these epistles from the Vatican. Anything more intemperate in tone, more shameless in its disregard of simple historical truth, and more insolently scornful of human rights and their political guarantees, than the letters of Pius IX., it would be hard to find, even in the mediæval archives of the Papacy. Victor Emanuel sets before the Pope, in language equally explicit and respectful, the absolute necessity which the position of Italy imposes upon every Italian sovereign, of consulting the irrepressible wishes and yielding to the legitimate demands of the Italian people. He reminds the Pius of 1860 that the Pius of 1847 was the first Italian Prince who recognized this necessity; and urges him, by every consideration which ought to move a Christian and patriot, to throw the weight of his authority with and not against the righteous movement of the times. The Pope in reply has nothing but insolence for the sovereign who counsels him, and contempt for the people in whose name that sovereign pleads. He will roll back the tides of the ocean, stop the sun in mid-heavens, thwart the glorious crystallization of Italy into a great Power lighted by libery and ruled by law; and he will excommunicate anybody and everybody who dares to interfere with him in these feasible and laudable enterprises. Boniface himself, flying before the Colonnas whom he had outraged, was not more obstinate or more insane; but the world was quit of Boniface with no great damage to the Church which he misruled. Pius IX. is dragging the chair of St. Peter down with himself into that most hopeless of all abysses—the abyss of universal contempt. In the great days of the Roman Church, the Popes maintained themselves against earthly monarchs because their temporal weakness was strengthened by the stand they took for the laws of heavenly justice against the superstitions and the brutality of military force. Victor Emanuel and Pius IX. reverse the picture. The temporal weakness of the Papacy is married now to a moral corruption and a political ignorance which it is hardly safe to exhibit to the Nineteenth Century, in open contrast with the armed loyalty and the powerful moderation of a great people and their elected king.

Welcome to an Old Acquaintance.—Among the loungers about the City Hall last Saturday, we recognized the familiar features of a former citizen of this place, whose zeal in all political matters, during his residence here, made him very popular, at one time, among a large and influential—indeed, a "governing" class of our people. He had held various offices, and, we think, was once or twice elected Mayor of the City. Some of his former acquaintances recognized and welcomed him back. But many of the old familiar faces of those with whom he formerly acted were missing.

On the whole, Mr. Wood—for to him we refer—looked sad. Lively emotions are very seldom excited by revisiting the scenes of one's earlier days. Mr. W. must have remarked many changes during his absence. He must have noticed that all his former endeavors to keep even the semblance of justice away from the City Hall had been counteracted, though the statue typical of that goddess had been placed as far from his own official chamber as possible. On glancing at Saturday's Tribune he must have observed that his old friends have left the field of politics, and turned their attention to proving that the moon, and even the sun, may be reached by ladders of moderate length, and that the stars are only celestial icicles.

Some things, however, had resisted change, and seemed to have become firmer with age. The Court-rooms and other chambers of the City Hall wore now the same dilapidated look of neglect as when he went away; the piles of brick and rubbish that impeded Broadway when he was last among us, had not been moved; grog-shops and free concerts had held their own, and Peter Funk glowered on the public from his old door. Mr. Wood may reasonably indulge the hope that this state of things will continue indefinitely, and that he will never live to see the City reduced to the hard slavery of order and good government.

We understand that during his residence at the South, whither he emigrated from among us, he has experienced sad reverses in the business in which he has been engaged, and has now returned to restore, perhaps, partially his weakened fortunes, and end his days surrounded by the friends and scenes of early life. Schooled in adversity abroad, we presume he has given up his restless and errant habits, and will settle down to the quiet enjoyment of what his enterprise and good fortune have conferred upon him. We hope it will be long before he has any occasion to leave us again.

The Fine Young Southern Gentlemen—Chivalry Pure and Simple.—We are inclined to think, from the episode in which Capt. Farnham, of the Wanderer, has recently figured at Savannah, that Gen. Henningsen's eulogium on him a few months ago was a great deal cooler than his merits called for. He has recently been rescued from the jail at Savannah by an armed party under the command of Mr. C. A. L. Lamar, and an attempt at recapture on the part of the United States Marshal was repelled with cocked revolvers. The Captain was in full and entire enjoyment of his liberty, and was in no more danger of incarceration than any man in Savannah. With Lamar on his side he had nothing whatever to fear from the United States.

Nevertheless he has, we are told, "compromised matters" with the Marshal, and consented to give bail when convenient to the tune of $30,000. This shows the Captain to be a real gentleman, as well as a brave soldier. Nobody but a man of exquisite delicacy and refinement of character would give bail to appear to a warrant served by a United States official in Savannah, after breaking jail, and effecting his escape vi et armis. Whether this magnanimous conduct was due to pity for the United States, or regard for the Marshal's feelings, it is equally creditable. The Federal Government must beware of trespassing too much on the patience of Southern gentlemen. It will not find many men accommodating enough to stay in jail on a charge of piracy as Capt. Farnham has done, and then offer to find bail after making his escape, when he is under no compulsion whatever to do so.

We ought also to compliment Mr. Lamar upon his forbearance in permitting the United States District and Circuit Courts to sit in Savannah as usual, considering the provocation he has received. We believe it is the only instance on record in which gentlemen in the position of Mr. Lamar and Capt. Farnham have permitted Courts of Justice to sit under their very noses when it was in their power to prevent them. Such moderation deserves more than a passing mention. Congress ought to reward it.

Minor Topics.

—The London Spectator, one of the oldest and most respectable of the English weekly journals, vindicates prize-fighting with great zeal and earnestness, denouncing the "secret instigators of the police" who tried to stop it, declaring that "public decorum degenerates into pharisaical affectation" when it makes such an outcry about fighting and glorifying the splendid qualities shown by both combatants. "Depend upon it," says the Spectator, "there are many things which are more dangerous to society and more horrible than prize fights." It glories greatly in the chivalry of the whole affair, and regrets patronizingly that Heenan showed little of it in selecting his position so that the sun should fall in the eyes of his antagonist. It contrasts this with the historical fact that "Pearce would not hurt Jem Belcher's remaining eye when he had his rival at a disadvantage," but judiciously ignores the fact that Sayers devoted himself to the pleasant task of blinding Heenan, as the only change of beating him. The Saturday Review, the organ of the most pretentious class of cultivated Englishmen, writes in a similar vein of the ring. No respectable journal in this country has yet said a syllable in vindication of this brutality.

—We are happy to learn that the Directors of the Great Eastern do not intend to rely exclusively upon the information they may receive from our Common Council as to the depth of water in our harbor. They have also made application, on this point, to the Board of Pilot Commissioners, who replied to them, by the steamer of last Wednesday, that they would send a pilot to England, if desired, to come out with them, and that they could bring her into New-York harbor if she did not draw over 26 feet of water.

OBITUARY.

Death of George Griffin, Esq.

It will be with regret that the public will learn that the Nestor of the New-York Bar is no more.

George Griffin, Esq., died yesterday morning, after a long illness, in the 83d year of his age. He was an active member of the bar of this City, in the full height of practice for just half a century. Few lawyers of his day achieved greater triumphs at the bar; his fame as an advocate being coextensive with the legal history of the country. Some of his eloquent jury speeches have been enrolled among those specimens of American eloquence which are daily declaimed by students in our Academies and Colleges as specimens of impassioned eloquence. It will be conceded by the bar, and by all familiar with his legal character, that he was an indefatigable student, a thorough commercial lawyer, an eloquent advocate, and a most faithful and zealous guardian of the interests of his clients.

He practiced with a race of legal giants. His daily competitors were men of the highest legal attainments, and of the most commanding powers of eloquence,—men who had learning beyond the books, and ambition above their fees;—men of high social position—gentlemen in the strictest sense of the term. He had to cope with such men as Emmet, Wells and Hoffman, Colden, Ogden and Slosson, Riggs and Jones, who then, by force of their commanding talents and indefatigable industry, managed all the practice in the Courts, and he was a bold man who dared to enter the lists against them.

The writer of these hasty remarks, at the age of eighteen, as a student in his office, was taught by this modern Gamaliel the principles of legal science, with which the deceased master of his profession was so familiar.

In the battles of the law the writer has hung with delight upon the forensic efforts of these master spirits of the profession, when arrayed against each other. Many a time has he remained in the Court-room, long after the shades of night had fallen upon the earth, to witness the passes of legal skill and wit, the bursts of eloquence that, falling from the lips of that phalanx of legal giants upon the admiring ears of a crowded court-room, made the vaulted arches of the City Hall ring with their echoes. Then such Judges as Kent, Spencer, Livingston, Radcliff and Van Ness listened and encouraged, while the public applauded these efforts of legal eloquence.

The arguments and speeches of counsel were things talked of as events of the day. Invariably elaborately prepared before-hand, they possessed unity and consistency, as well as power and eloquence. The Judges, too, by their tenure of office, removed beoynd and above the strife or struggle for place, threw no stumbling-blocks in the way of jus[illegible] [illegible] law was then a profession—not, as now, a [illegible] [illegible] such a legal atmosphere, amid such men, and [illegible] with legal armor, Mr. Griffin, at the [illegible] [illegible] came to the New-York Bar [illegible] [illegible] to fight his way to [illegible] The history of the Bar shows [illegible] place in their foremost ranks.

Such was [illegible] him, and for many years thereafter, as associate or as antagonist, witnessed the efforts of his powerful mind. He saw him recently; how changed he was—a ruin, but still a noble ruin. [illegible]

Notwithstanding the engrossing studies of his profession, he yet remembered that this life was but a passage to the life to come.

He was strongly imbued with the great truths of Christianity in the strength of his early manhood, but he never officiously obtruded his views of religion upon others.

He early joined the Presbyterian Church after he came to this City, and, humanly speaking, he was a consistent Christian.

On his retirement from the bar, he devoted several years of his life to the production of two religious works: The Sufferings of our Saviour, and the Evidences of Christianity,—works which showed that he bent the whole powers of his eloquent mind and ardent imagination to serve the cause of his master above, as well as he had served man below.

Let the Bar, individually and as a body, do honor to his memory. J. W. G.

Dangerous Counterfeit.

Philadelphia, Saturday, May 5.

The city has been flooded with new counterfeit Fives on the Commonwealth Bank. An extra of Imlay & Bicknell's Reporter says:

The following is the only difference between the genuine fives and the counterfeits: the bill posted up against the door out of which the man is coming, with a bag on his shoulder, in the genuine, has printing on it, commencing with the word "Sale," and ending with "Jan'y 7, '57." On the counterfeit there is no printing at all, but as this can be very easily remedied, it may be only a ruse of the counterfeiters to get the counterfeits described as having this printing omitted, and then to flood the country with a new issue, with this omission remedied. The only safety for the public, is to refuse all "5s" on this bank, until a new plate is issued. It is pronounced by the highest authority in such matters, to be the most perfectly executed counterfeit that has ever been issued in this country.

The Canadian Reciprocity Treaty.

Oswego, Saturday, May 5.

The dispatch from Washington yesterday, stating that Mr. King presented a memorial from the Board of Trade at Oswego, complaining of the manner in which the Reciprocity Treaty between the United States and Great Britain is carried out, is a mistake. The Oswego Board of Trade have had no action on this subject.

HEALTH OF HAVANA—MARKETS, &C.

The steamship Cahawba arrived on Saturday morning from Havana, whence she sailed on the 30th ult.

There was no local news at Havana. The people were delighted that a Treaty of Amity and commercial intercourse has been determined upon between the United States and Spain. The health of Havana continued good.

The Sugar market at the close of the week ending the 28th ult. remained firm. D. S. N., No. 12, quoted at 8¼@8½ reals ℔ arrobe. The Havana Price Current of the 28th ult. says: We principally attribute the better feeling of the market to a succession of heavy rains which we have experienced during the past four days. The general impression is that the rainy season has fairly begun, and that the grinding all over the Island must soon be suspended, and that our crop in consequence will be a short one—we leave our quotations unchanged. Stock on hand 240,000 boxes. Molasses, demand moderate without change in prices. Freights have improved, and the demand increasing for small vessels, both for the United States and Europe.

Exchange on London, 60 days' sight, 11½@12½ prem.; Exchange on New-York, 60 days' sight, par to 1½ prem.; Exchange on New-Orleans, (short sight,) 1½@2½ prem.

RESTORATION OF PEACE AND OF COMMERCIAL CONFIDENCE IN THE REPUBLIC—SENOR TOVAR ELECTED PRESIDENT.

By the arrival of brig T. B. Watson at this port, we have advices from Porto Cabello to April 18.

The country is in a fair way for peace. Manuel Felipe Tovar has a confirmed majority for President of 44,000. He is pronounced by all the best man in the country.

The merchants have more confidence and look more cheerful. Produce, as yet, comes in slow, and keeps very high.

There are rumors by some few that Gen. Paez will return; but it is not deemed probable.

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

INTERESTING SURGICAL CASES AT THE CITY HOSPITAL.—Calling at Dr. WARE, Resident Surgeon of the New-York Hospital, yesterday, to learn the result of the application of the new method of arresting hemorrhage, an account of which was published in the TIMES last week, we found that the stump of the arm amputated had almost wholly united by first intention. Looking around the ward we noticed two patients whose condition was unusually interesting; the one, PATRICK FOLAN, convalescent from a frightful wound, which many at the time considered fatal. He was at work in the Bergen Tunnel when a rock gave way from above and struck his right shoulder taking away his arm. Being of an excellent constitution he survives,—perhaps to add still more to the number of his escapes. He has been confined several times within a year for broken ribs, legs and arms. He says at one time his knee-pan "was broken in three halves," an expression which will indicate his nationality. The other, GEO. BAKER, with fracture of the spine, producing paralysis of the lower parts of the body. He was mate of the brig Benjamin Delano, and on April 12th was in the top overhauling the signal halliards, when he fell over, striking the rigging in his descent. He is in pretty good spirits, though his friends scarcely hope for his recovery. In the same ward is OWEN KELLY, who dislocated his hip six months ago, while in the Bay of Biscay, without having it set. The surgeons of New-Orleans told him that the socket of the hip had been filled up in consequence of the long time that had elapsed since the accident occurred, and that there was no remedy. He has been in the straight apparatus here for five weeks, and now uses the limb, which is gradually resuming its natural place and appearance. In the main house, Dr. DELL informs us, LETITIA KNEE, who was accidentally shot by a pistol on the morning of April 10, will save her finger, though it will be much shortened. NEBOSIQUE MARCHAND, a bright child of 13 years, is the only one of the sufferers by the Elm-street catastrophe now remaining in the Hospital. She fell from the fifth story, and received a compound fraction of the thigh. She is still confined to the bed, though the limb is in a prosperous condition. Of the others of her friends who left the fifth story with her, FRANCIUS VOPEL left the Hospital as soon as her burns were healed, and a few days ago she left for Paris, where she hopes to recover from her extreme nervous irritability. M. BERNARD, who received no external injuries by the fall, having no means to enable him to remain in the Hospital, has been living with acquaintances at No. 192 Mulberry-street, on credit. He still suffers much, but is now earning a little by his trade, the needle. MARGARET LUCY, whose skull was somewhat fractured by a stove which fell upon her as she was helping her husband take it up stairs, on the 31st of March, obtained permission to visit her friends last week, and has not been heard from since.

DANGERS BY FERRY.—That man would be set down at once as a dolt who, because his neighbor's house had been broken in at a back door, should thereafter guard only the rear of his own house, without caring whether front doors and windows were locked or not. Yet we see no difference between such folly and that of legislators who make laws only to protect the community from a recurrence of evils already sustained. After a factory has blown up, and a tenement-house has blazed into a funeral pile, there is no lack of measures to provide against a recurrence of the evil. But this is only lopping off the branches, when the axe should be laid at the root. When some one of the passenger-scows that ply between this City and Hoboken shall have carried to the bottom of the North River half a hundred of our citizens, official scrutiny will doubtless be directed to the condition of the scores of ferry-boats, on whose worthiness twice each day hangs the safety of a thousand lives. We are quite certain that few of the tenement-houses recently pronounced unsafe by the new Department, are really the sources of greater or more probable danger than some of the City ferry-boats. On Friday last, as one of the Hoboken boats was hastening its speed to compensate for some delay in starting, an explosion of the boiler, or some part connected therewith, occurred, filling the passengers with consternation and the boat with steam. Though no serious damage was done, and the voyage across the river occupied only three quarters of an hour, yet very few would care to take the chances a second time, of a sudden scald, or an unprepared-for voyage on a sea that has no Hoboken shore. The fact that any explosion occurred at all, suggests the possibility of one with much more serious results. Before it happens, let us have some of the zeal, which characterizes the scrutiny of filthy and dangerous tenements, turned in the direction of the Hoboken Ferry; and also let us have the new steamship law, which subjects ferry boats to the same inspection and regimen as larger vessels.

THE CITY HALL FINISHED.—We predicted a while ago that some fine morning Justice in effigy would be found perched on the City Hall. The figured goddess, in robes of shining white, looks benignantly on the great town, and, with tempting exhibition of impartial scales, invites those who seek her aid to the temple on which she stands. Considered as a crowning ornament of the edifice whose architectural completion has been so very slow of growth, the figure is indeed becoming. But as a type of that impartial integrity, which bends to no favor, fears no threat, and knows no prejudice, it might infinitely better adorn any play-house in town. For on the stage the forms of justice, even poetic justice, are observed in distinguishing the good from the bad, and bestowing on each the appropriate reward, while in the City Hall justice is hardly allowed a quiet corner in which to blush. From Mayor to Common Councilman, all consider the public treasury a fair subject for plunder. And, not content with drawing regular salaries for time spent in pursuit of their personal business, hundreds of miles away, they are constantly laying new and extraordinary plans for appropriating the public treasure to their personal use. The general course and spirit of the City legislators would find a vastly truer type in a statue of Mercury, the god of thieves, than in this image of benign Justice, the punisher of thieves and robbers. We are disposed, however, to be duly grateful for having lived to witness the completion of external repairs of the Hall, so long delayed, even though the final adornment be inconsistent with the uses to which the building is put.

FUNERAL OF REV. DR. ARCHIBAD MACLAY.—The Baptist Tabernacle Church in Second-avenue was yesterday morning crowded to its utmost capacity on the occasion of the funeral of the Venerable Dr. ARCHIBALD MACLAY, who died at his residence in this City on Wednesday last. There was no regular funeral sermon, but, after the reading of the Scriptures and singing, addresses were delivered by Rev. Dr. BETHUNE, Rev. Dr. SOMERS, Rev. EDWARD LATHROP, Rev. H. P. WILLIAMS and Rev. Dr. HAGUE. Most of the speakers indulged in interesting biographical reminiscences of the deceased, but Dr. HAGUE went most into details. The birth-place of Dr. MACLAY he gave as an obscure village near Loch Lomond, Scotland, his father being a poor farmer. He was converted at the age of twelve, and came to this country when he was twenty-four years old, shortly after which he assumed pastoral charge of the Congregational Church on Rose-street, instead of going as a missionary to India. His long connection with the Baptist Tabernacle Church, with the American Bible Union, and the American and Foreign Bible Society, were dwelt upon and furnished the subjects of several anecdotes illustrating the integrity, courage and noble intellectual and religious traits of the deceased. The coffin, which was of rosewood and silver mounted, stood in front of the chancel, but the remains were not exposed to view. The coffin bore the following inscription: "ARCHIBALD MACLAY, died May 2, 1860, aged 82 years." The body was temporarily placed in the receiving vault in the Second-street Cemetery, preliminary to being removed for final interment in Greenwood.

THE OBSERVANCE OF THE SUNDAY LAW.—There were fewer infractions of the Sunday law yesterday than during the two previous Sabbaths since the attempt to enforce it has been made—consequently, as intoxicating drink was difficult to obtain, breaches of the peace were not numerous, and the Police had little to do. The boats to Staten Island, Hoboken and other suburban places of resort were all day long crowded with pleasure-seekers, who, excepting in rare cases, came back to the City in their sober senses. A few liquor dealers, who had insisted on acting in a refractory way, were arrested, and their places forcibly closed. The Police Magistrates held the following-named persons each in a surety of $100, to answer at the Court of Special Sessions: Robert Kinnier, No. 81 Cortlandt-street; Charles Nordenholt, No. 124 West-street; Daniel Baker, "Island City House," No. 1 South street; Adolf Kroger, No. 18 Delancey-street; Cristopher Johns, No. 36 Delancey-street; Hugh White, No. 148 Cherry-street; Thomas Stanton, No. 175 Hester-street.

TESTIMONIAL.—On Saturday evening Mr. STEPHEN PHILBIN, a large dealer in gas fixtures and plumbing materials, was made the recipient of a pleasing compliment, at the hands of his employees, prior to his departure for a European tour. An excellent supper was given him at Reed's Restaurant, and at its close Mr. PINKERTON, foreman of his establishment, presented him with an elegant gold watch in behalf of his fellow-workmen. Mr. PHILBIN handsomely responded, and kindly sentiments were offered by Messrs. QUIN, LYNCH, BURKE, MOSHER and MCGOLDRICK. The employees of the establishment, numbering about seventy persons, were all present, and their appearance was not only creditable to themselves, but also to their employer. The utmost good feeling prevailed, and the general desire of the company was expressed in a wish that Mr. PHILBIN's bin might always be filled with such golden tokens. The cost of the testimonial was about $500. It bore an appropriate inscription, with the Latin motto, "Tempus fugit, labor vincit."

NEW-YORK INFIRMARY FOR INDIGENT WOMEN AND CHILDREN.—This deserving institution, which was formerly located at the corner of Bleecker and Crosby streets, has been removed to No. 126 Second avenue, near Eighth-street, to a large and commodious house which has been purchased by the Trustees. It is 25 by 70 feet, of four stories, and well adapted for the accommodation of patients. The usefulness of the establishment will be considerably augmented by these increased facilities. The Dispensary and Infirmary patients are constantly increasing.

FORTUNATE KNOWLEDGE.—On Friday evening, a lady, residing in the eastern section of the City, purchased at the drug store of G. A. WARRIER, corner of Stanton and Lewis streets, what she supposed to be a seidlitz-powder, but which, upon examination, she discovered was red precipitate, a deadly poison. The police of the Eleventh Precinct were informed of the criminal carelessness of the apothecary, and the powder was returned to him. When told of his mistake, he obligingly offered to exchange the poison for the article that had been required.

FOR EUROPE.—The steamship Vanderbilt, Capt. LEFEVRE, left on Saturday for Southampton and Havre, with the United States mails, $1,539,368 in specie, a large freight, and 389 passengers. The screw steamer City of Baltimore, Capt. PETRIE, also departed for Queenstown and Liverpool, carrying 120 cabin, 170 steerage passengers, and $565,918 in specie, making one of the largest specie shipments for the season. The total number of passengers in the two ships was 679.

EXPLANATORY.—We are authorized and requested to state that in the recent election of officers in the Geographical and Statistical Society, the name of Prof. MORSE was used without his assent and contrary to his expressed wishes. We are informed that he neither sought nor desired the office for which he was nominated, and had he been elected, even by a large majority, he had signified his purpose peremptorily to decline.

KEEPING CLEAN.—The only business of importance before the two Police Commissioners, Messrs. BOWEN & BERGEN, on Saturday, was the reception of the report of the Sanitary squad, as to the filthy condition of certain premises. The owners thereof were ordered to clean them forthwith, under penalty of having the work done by the Corporation, at the expense of the property.

AFFAIRS IN THE SOUTHERN STATES.—The Rev. DANIEL WORTH, who was imprisoned in North Carolina for circulating HELPER'S Impending Crisis, and who is under bonds of $3,000 to appear in that State for trial, is now in this city. He intends to recount the story of his arrest, and speak on the condition of affairs in the Southern States, this evening in the City Assembly Rooms.

WEEKLY REPORT OF THE NEW-YORK HOSPITAL TO MAY 4, 1860.—Remaining on April 27, 244; admitted to May 4, 47; discharged, cured or relieved, 50; died, 4; remaining at date, 237. Males 183; females, 44.

Police Reports.

SPOILING THE SPORT.

Just before midnight on Saturday, the cheering and unusual noise on the pier at the foot of Roosevelt-street, induced coxswain Simley and boat's crew No. 8 of the Harbor Police, to land and ascertain its cause, when they found that the prototype of the "great international mill" was in course of representation by moonlight, before an audience of two hundred or more thieves, loafers and other sporting men. The combatants were Charles Cann and Thomas Mullen, two Fourth Ward ruffians, ambitious of pugilistic fame, who had fought four rounds in artistic style, and were just coming to "time" for the fifth when the Police broke into the ring and secured them. The seconds, referee, bottle-holders and all the spectators precipitately fled at the irruption of Officers, and the fight will probably be considered a "drawn one." The principals, each bearing the marks of the other's prowess, were yesterday morning taken before Aldermen SMITH, acting-Justice at the Tombs, and fined $10 each for disorderly conduct. As, however, all their funds had been wagered and placed in the hands of stake-holders, who had deserted them in their trouble, they were consigned to the cells for non-payment of the penalty.

A VARIETY OF OFFENCES.

Edward Welch, a boy 14 years of age, who has been engaged in the store of John H. Duycklinck, No. 164 Pearl-street, was committed for trial on a charge of stealing a quantity of gold pens, knives, pencil-cases, &c., from his employer. Fortyne Jamieson, a Jersey City merchant, who is alleged to have bought the goods from the lad, was also held as a receiver of stolen property.....In a fight which occurred on Friday night between Stephen Waldron, a carpenter, and Francis Brunninger, residing in Forty-eighth-street, near First-avenue, the latter was terribly stabbed in the left side by his antagonist. Waldron is in custody, awaiting the result of his victim's injuries....Charles Gilmour, the partner of Patrick Duffy in the ticket swindling business, both of whom are charged with defrauding Rev. John ames, of Missouri, to the extent of $250 in the purchase of tickets by the California steamer, was held in $1,000 bail by Justice WELSH, to answer for the swindle and for keeping a disorderly house. Duffy is still at large.....A man, who gave the name of Stephen H. Chase, went surety, a few days since, for James Burns, who had been held on a charge of arson, the bondsman having sworn to be the owner of property at No. 134 Second-street, valued at $11,000. Chase subsequently appeared at the Recorder's Office, and under the name of Stephen H. Chapin, offered himself as surety for the appearance of Adolph Kleinsmidt, who is indicted for shop-lifting, and again made oath that the Second-street property was his. It having transpired that the real estate in question belongs to Police Capt. Hart, Chase was committed for trial on a charge of perjury.....Justice BRENNAN held Crecencia Roth to answer a charge of having stolen two gold watches, valued at $175, from her employer, Mr. William M. Wennerschinck, of No. 17 Forsyth-street. The watches were recovered from a pawnbroker, to whom the accused had pledged them.

Coroner's Inquests.

FALL FROM A ROOF.

On Saturday WILLIAM BURNS, a man 27 years of age, who was employed as a slater on the roof of No. 96 Morton-street, slipped off and struck upon his head in the area-way, receiving such injuries that his death speedily resulted. Deceased resided with his family at No. 60 West Washington-street, where Coroner JACKMAN held an inquest upon the body.

FOUND IN THE RIVER.

An unknown man, apparently a laborer, 35 years of age, was found drowned on Saturday morning in the East River, at the foot of Jackson-st. No evidence as to his identity was elicited at the inquest held by Coroner SCHIRMER.

A strong dramatic company has been engaged to render justice to the play, and all the resources of Mr. Nixon's troupe will be expended on the show. Miss LINA WINDEL—a well-remembered danseuse of the late Ravel troupe—will make her rentrée on this occasion.

Cricket.

EAST NEW YORK versus QUEEN'S COUNTY.—The Queen's County Club—a new organization—having challenged the East New York Club, barring several players; the match was played at East New York on Saturday. The match was a very pleasant one and well contested; HALL, SUYDAM, SEABURY, DARE, and HADKINS, being Americans, and playing very well indeed. SUYDAM, who is very young, batted finely—making 16 runs—and is a promising player. A celebrated English cricketer, Mr. HAMPSHERE, played for Queen's County, but was not allowed to bowl. Four Americans played on the East New York side—VAN SULEN, C. WALDEN, HOAGLAND, and FURMAN. Quite a number of cricketers were on the ground, and a fine dinner was furnished for them at REID's Howard House. Some complimentary speeches were made, on giving up the ball, and the Queen's County men left with cheers. The score stood as follows:

East New York first innings 60, second innings 102. Queen's County first innings 39, second innings 77. Umpires, Mr. SAENS for East New York, Mr. CUTP, for Queen's County.

Second Meeting of the Subscribers to the Produce Exchange.

Another meeting of the merchants in favor of the establishment of a Produce Exchange was held at noon on Saturday, May 5, at No. 35 Pearl-street. Mr. R. H. BERDELL acted as Chairman, and Mr. ALFRED BARRETT, as Secretary. The minutes of Thursday's meeting were read. Mr. W. D. MANGAM presented a report from the majority of the Committee, appointed to confer with Mr. MEAD in reference to the purchase of the property which had been recommended as suitable for the business of an Exchange as also to select names of a Board of Trustees. The report was to the effect that the property, bounded by Pearl, Whitehall, Water, and Moore streets, could be purchased for $155,000, and clear possession thereof obtained on the 1st day of June; that the property was mortgaged to the extent of $75,000—thus: $40,000 at 6 per cent., $20,000 and $15,000, respectively, at 7 per cent. per annum; that the mortgages for $40,000 and $20,000 had matured, but would be continued, or renewed; that the one for $15,000 had two years to run; that the purchase-money should be paid at the rate of 25 per cent. on the delivery of the deed, 25 per cent. in sixty days from the date of such delivery, and 50 per cent. within thirty days from the date of the last payment; that Mr. MEAD would take, as part payment, $20,000 worth of the stock of the proposed organization; that he would require no interest on the several installments; that he would give the subscribers to the Produce Exchange the refusal of the property, on these terms, until the 15th of May; and that the majority of the Committee recommended to have the capital fixed at $175,000. This report made no mention of names of Trustees, as the parties who prepared it were not willing to offer any such recommendation. Mr. E. W. COLEMAN presented a minority report, explanatory of the reasons why no general decision had been arrived at in reference to the selection of Trustees, and recommending the following list of names as the choice of the minority of the Committee:

S. C. Paxon, R. J. Randolph, Wm. H. Newman, E. C. Cromwell, N. H. Wolfe, E. J. Lowber, Wm. D. Mangam, L. D. Harrison, and F. M. French.

Each report occasioned much discussion, but both were ultimately unanimously adopted. A resolution offered by Mr. MANGAM, and seconded by Mr. THEODORE PERRY, to the effect that the nine gentlemen, whose names had received the entire sanction of the meeting, should proceed to the perfection of an organization of the Produce Exchange, in the interest and as the representatives of the subscribers thereto, was also adopted without dissent. An adjournment followed. It may be added that subscriptions amounting to $170,000 have already been received.

A Card from John Morrissey.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I see by the newspapers since I arrived from England, that there appears to be some ill feeling expressed towards me in this country for the part I took in the late fight between SAYERS and HEENAN. For the opinion entertained of me by the fighting fraternity I care but little, but I do wish to have myself placed in a proper light before the public, and with that object in view I address you these lines.

In the first place, the part I took in the fight was purely a business one, not thinking for a moment that it would prove such a national affair. HEENAN himself said it was no national affair; he did not consider it as such. In betting my money upon SAYERS, and going to England to witness the fight, I did no more than many others did, and why I should be singled out as a target against which public opinion should be directed I cannot say. It is said I cut the ropes, and was the chief instigator in breaking up the fight. Now, as far as cutting the ropes was concerned, they were not cut at all. The stakes were nearly pulled out of the ground, and the ropes thrown down. I defy any one who was present at the fight to say that I ever opened my lips to make any disturbance from the commencement to the end of the fight. In fact, I spoke to no one during the progress of the fight, but stood quietly by and saw the whole affair without making any demonstrations whatever.

In reference to the fight itself, and the cause which led to its breaking up, and the capabilities of the men, I prefer not to say anything until Mr. HEENAN and his friends arrive home. I wish to give them an opportunity of replying to any statement I may hereafter make. I have seen it stated in one of the newspapers that HEENAN had authorized MCDONALD to challenge me. Now, I know nothing of this challenge, except through this newspaper, and I have nothing to say in relation to it at present.

It was rumored that on my arrival at Boston I was subjected to threats of violence by the friends of Mr. HEENAN. I assure you there is no foundation for such a report. I passed through Boston as quietly as any other citizen, and arrived in this City on Friday evening.

JOHN MORRISSEY.

BROOKLYN INTELLIGENCE.

THE SUNDAY LIQUOR LAW.—Nearly all of the places where liquor is sold, were closed yesterday, in obedience to the law. A few of the more venturesome, however, kept open as usual, and in consequence a majority of them found themselves in a prison at night. About a dozen arrests. The Police have so little work to do in this line in the city that they have commenced extending their operations into the country districts. Detective FOLK yesterday arrested SIMONSON, the proprietor of a bar-room in New Lots, for violating the law, and he was locked up in the cells at the City Hall. An attempt was made to get out a writ of habeas corpas but the attempt failed. The cases of the parties arrested one week ago for violating the Sunday law will be disposed of before Justice CORNWELL to-day.

MORTALITY.—During the week ending Saturday last, there were 100 deaths in this city, classified as follows: Men, 13; Women, 20; Girls, 30, Boys, 37. Adults, 30; Children, 70. Males, 50; Females, 50. There were 9 deaths by consumption, and 11 by scarlet fever.

SENTENCED.—Constable SLATTERY and MICHAEL FLOOD, who behaved so brutally to Miss BRAINARD while attempting to arrest her father, were sentenced in the Court of Sessions, Saturday, each to 60 days' imprisonment in the Penitentiary.

BODY FOUND.—The body of an unknown man was taken out of the water at the foot of Sedgwick-street, South Brooklyn, this morning. Coroner HORTON will hold an inquest to-day.

CHURCH DEDICATION.—The new Church recently erected by the First United Presbyterian congregation, corner of South Ninth and Eighth streets, E. D., at a cost of about $30,000, was finally dedicated to the worship of God yesterday.

CITY COURT.—The May calendar will be taken up in this Court to-day, and the first twenty causes will be called.

Staten Island.

THE THEFT OF THE BALLOT-BOX—INDIGNATION MEETING OF THE CITIZENS.

There was a large open-air meeting of the citizens of Castleton, S. I., on Saturday evening, at the village of Factoryville, to consider what proceedings should be taken with reference to the theft and destruction of the ballot-box on Wednesday last, the evening of the town election. The general indignation at the outrage was made apparent by the presence of men of all parties, and addresses were made by Col. NATHAN BARRETT, GEORGE W. CURTIS and LOT C. CLARK.

Mr. CLARK gave a detailed statement of the circumstances of the plot, which had its inception in Albany, for erecting a new town in the county, and which culminated in the attempt to defeat the will of the people by the theft and destruction of the ballots. He also gave the particulars of the outrage as they had been developed at the judicial examination of the case, and stated the provisions of law which applied to them.

The following resolutions, expressive of the sense of the meeting, were adopted with great applause:

Resolved, That the people of the town of Castleton, profoundly indignant at the gross outrage perpetrated upon them by the theft and destruction of the ballot-box at the recent election for town officers, will use every lawful means in their power to bring the offenders to punishment.

Resolved, That warned and alarmed by the increasing political corruption in the management of the affairs of this town, the people will resume their sovereign rights, and laying aside all merely party considerations, will hereafter cordially and honestly unite in voting for the best men of any and all parties for their town officers.

Upon motion of LOT C. CLARK, the following additional resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That an Executive Committee of five persons, (amended to seven,) be appointed by the Chair, whose duty it shall be to institute an investigation into the circumstances attending the carrying away of the ballot-box and destruction of the ballots, at the recent town meeting, to prosecute criminally all parties connected with the perpetration of this outrage, and to lay the matter before the next Grand Jury.

Resolved, That the Executive Committee be empowered to take whatever steps may be necessary to organize the town, which has been deprived of its officers by the recent outrage, to call future meetings of the tax-payers and citizens, as emergency may require; to see that a ticket of persons whose character, principles, and standing are above reproach, are selected, without reference to politics or party, to be supported for town officers at any future election in this town; and that such Committee be also empowered to take such further action in behalf of the inhabitants of the town as the present emergency may require.

Upon motion of Mr. W. TEMPLETON JOHNSON, the Committee were empowered to fill vacancies.

The following gentlemen were appointed the Committee: Daniel Low, Chairman; Peter L. Martling, Col. Nathan Barrett, Dr. John S. Westervelt, Lot. C. Clark, Michael Coppinger, Daniel F. Appleton.

The meeting adjourned with three hearty cheers for the Committee and the town, but the crowd were not content without making a further demonstration before they dispersed, and so, accompanied by the band, proceeded first to the residence of Mr. CURTIS, and then to that of Mr. SHAW, the People's candidate for Supervisor, saluting both gentlemen with music and cheers. Mr. CURTIS made an appropriate acknowledgment of the compliment.

Jersey City.

CHURCH DEDICATION.—The ceremony of dedicating the Third Reformed Dutch Church, which has just been erected at the corner of South Third and Erie streets, took place yesterday. The building is 62 feet front, 88 feet deep, built of brick, with brown-stone trimmings, in the Ionic style of Grecian architecture. The audience floor contains 138 pews, and the gallery 42, and will accommodate altogether about 1,000 persons. The basement, when completed, will be set apart for the Sunday School meetings, Bible Class, &c. The interior of the church is finished and furnished in an elegant style. The entire cost will be about $33,000. In the morning the sermon and dedicatory services were by the pastor, Rev. C. F. WELLS, and Rev. Dr. TAYLOR, of Bergen. In the afternoon and evening sermons were preached by Rev. Dr. CAMPBELL, of New-Brunswick, and Dr. BETHUNE, of New-York.

OAK ORCHARD ACID SPRING-WATER.—This water is gaining great celebrity, and the demand for it is increasing rapidly. Its beneficial character is attested by thousands, and it is pronounced by distinguished physicians to be superior to any other medicinal spring water now in use. The almost miraculous cures which it has performed lead us to believe that it is destined to become extensively used in the treatment of very many diseases which ordinary remedies fail to cure. Its curative properties are established beyond question, and we feel assured that it must, to a great extent, supersede many of the artificial compounds of the day. We recommend those of our readers who may be suffering from general debility, or from any of the diseases for which this water is prescribed, to give it a trial. No water genuine unless procured from H. W. BOSTWICK, sole agent, New-York.

MEDICAL.

A GOOD THING, THAT EVERYBODY should have: HUMPHREYS' SPECIFIC HOMEOPATHIC REMEDIES stand confessedly at the head of remedial means for the use of the people. They are alike removed from the poisonous, dangerous and repulsive doses of quackery, or Old School practice; the inconvenience of Water Cure, or the intricate and perplexing obscurities of the usual Homeopathic books and medicines. Consisting of simple specifics for the various diseases to which they are related—put up in the form of simple sugar pellets—and prepared of ingredients neither dangerous nor disgusting, they are the ready aid of the parent or nurse, and the comfort of the complaining and invalid.

They possess these positive advantages: They are harmless; no injury can arise from their use. They are simple; you always know what to take, and how to take it. They are convenient; you can give the proper Sugar Pills at a moment's warning, without hesitation or delay. They are efficient; in thousands of cases disease is arrested at once, and the system freed without prostration or delay.

OAK ORCHARD ACID SPRINGS.

These Springs are situated in the valley of the Oak Orchard Creek, in the town of Alabama, Genessee Co., N. Y., eight miles south of the village of Medina, on the Erie Canal, and fourteen miles from Batavia.

The principal Acid Springs are three in number; besides these there are six others. They are all located within a circuit of about fifty rods. The medicinal qualities of the waters are fully shown in the subjoined testimonials. They contain a very large amount of Salphur, Sulphuric Acid, Sulphate of Lime, and Proto-Sulphate of Iron. The great medicinal virtues possessed by the waters depend very largely upon the presence, in such unusual quantities, of these curative substances.

Hundreds of cases of disease, especially those resulting from the scrofulous diathesis, have been cured by their use.

In skin diseases—even in confirmed leprosy—the waters have been signally successful.

Opinions of medical and scientific gentlemen are given in the circulars. The following eminent gentlemen speak in strong terms of the medicinal value of these waters:—Prof. EMMONS, T ROMEYN BECK, M. D., of Albany; JAS. MCNAUGHTON, M. D., of Albany; EDWARD SPRING, M. D., of New York; Dr. R. CAMPBELL, of Pittsfield, Mass.; Dr. J. S. SHULER, of Lockport, N. Y. They recommend the waters confidently. Dr. Spring refers to a case of chronic diarrhea of several years' standing, which was cured by the use of the water. Dr. Peck says: "I am satisfied that these waters are highly valuable as medicinal agents." Dr. Campbell says: "They must be highly beneficial for all chronic diseases of the stomach and bowels"

Dr. S. P. WHITE read a paper on the subject of these Waters, before the Academy of Physicians, in the City of New-York, in which he states that the Waters possess decidedly tonic, refrigerant, and astringent properties; and that the class of diseases to which they are more particularly adaped are: Chronic affections of the digestive and urinary organs, and some of the cutaneous diseases; chronic dyspepsia; chronic diarrhœa; chronic dysentery; chronic diuresis; chronic cystitis; diabetes; cases of passive hemorrhage, such as Purpura hemorrhagica, and the colliquative sweats of Hectic Fever. The Water may also be often used with advantage, he says, in cases of low typhoid fevers; in convalescence from protracted fevers, to excite the appetite and promote digestion; in diarrhœas, particularly such as are dependent on a relaxed or ulcerated state of the mucous membrane of the intestines. In calculous affections, or lithiasis, attended with phosphatic sediments, it is the suitable remedy, being preferable to muriatic acid, as being more solvent, and less apt, by continued use, to disorder the stomach. In febrile diseases it can be used, properly diluted, as a refrigerant to diminish thirst and preternatural heat. In skin diseases—in those forms of dyspepsia connected with an alkaline condition of the stomach as in pyrosis, or water-brash, it will prove better than hydrochloric acid. In cases of Colica pictonum, and other injurious consequences arising from the action of lead, this water will prove to be an admirable antidote. In chronic pharyngitis, laryngitis, chronic mucous catarrh, and humid asthma, chronic ophthalmia, (externally,) as a gargle in ulcerated sore throats, in cases of salivation, and in leucorrhœa and gleet; and also in piles.

When taken internally, a wine-glassful of the Water, diluted, taken three times a day, is sufficient for an adult.

Other testimonials from physicians, and other respectable individuals, may be seen on application to the Agent.

Dealers supplied on liberal terms.

HUNDREDS OF THE UNFORTUNATE are disappointed of a cure by not calling on Dr. HUNTER at first. The Hunterian Dispensary, No. 3 Division-st., New-York City, established in 1834, for the Preservation of Human Life. PRIVATE CONSULTATION.—Dr. Hunter has for thirty years confined his attention to diseases of a certain class, in which he has treated not less than fifty thousand cases without an instance of failure. His great remedy, HUNTER'S RED DROP, cures certain diseases when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases, in less than six hours. It roots out the poisonous taint the blood is sure to absorb, unless this remedy is used. It is $1 a vial, and cannot be obtained genuine anywhere but at the old office, No. 3 Division-st. Book for nothing, that treats of the evil effects of early abuse and indulgence, is embellished with elaborate colored engravings, portraying every feature and phase of disease, exposes the fallacy of the ordinary modes adopted for the cure of local as well as hereditary maladies, and gives the only safe and infallible remedy for expunging every trace of the virus from the system.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

MOSES—MISS PATTI.

This evening, for the first time in America, Rossini's greatest opera of

MOSE IN EGYPT.

The sale of seats for the first two nights of MOSE IN EGYPT commences this morning at the ACADEMY OF MUSIC, BREUSING'S, and at SIBELL'S, No. 12 Wall st.

THIS (Monday) EVENING, May 7, first night of MOSE IN EGYPT.

Being the new version expressly arranged by Rossini for the Italian Opera in Paris, known as

IL NUOVO MOSE.

Miss PATTI............as............Anaide.
Mme. STRAKOSCH............as............Sinaide.
Mme. FICHER............as............Maria.
Sig. BRIGNOLI............as............Amenofi.
Sig. FERRI............as............Farone
Sig. SCOLA............as............Elisero.
Sig. DUBREUL............as............Osirid.
Sig. SUSINI............as............Mosè.

The music of MOSE IN EGITTO has been studied and rehearsed under the immediate superintendence of Sig. MUZIO.

The Directors believe that in selecting Rossini's master-work as the last new Opera to be brought out this season, they not only have consulted their own interests, but have likewise fulfilled the ardent wish of the public at large, who for many years have been anxious to see this Opera performed. At no time could the Directors have brought it out with fuller justice to the fame of the great composer, and to the grandeur of the music, than at present. Signor SUSINI'S Italian reputation is identified with this Opera, and he is universally considered, both in London and the principal cities in Italy, as the greatest living representative of Mose. Signor FERRI has won his last laurels in Milan as Pharao, whilst Signor BRIGNOLI has had the honor of creating the principal tenor part when "Mose in Egitto" was revived some six years ago, for the début of Madame Bosio at the Grand Opera in Paris. The three leading male parts are, therefore, in the hands of artists who have given abundant proof of their capability of rendering them more than adequately. As regards Miss PATTI, with her extraordinary facility and genius, she has mastered the enormous difficulties of her rôle with such success that the directors would be sorely disappointed if the part of Anaide should not prove one of her most artistic achievements. This extraordinary ensemble therefore, with music grand and majestic, yet abounding in most charming and taking melodies, a libretto full of interest, and so correct that it must find favor with even those classes whose religious prejudices prevent them from attending the usual operatic performances together with the mise en scene worthy of the first musical establishment in the country, encourage the directors in the hope of being honored with great patronage

The sale of seats for the first two nights of MOSE commences this morning, at the Academy, Breusing's and Sibell's, No. 12 Wall-st.

ON WEDNESDAY May 9, second night of MOSES IN EGYPT.

THE NECESSITY OF THE BIBLE.

The anniversary sermon before this Association was preached last evening by Rev. T. S. Hastings, (pastor of the Carmine-street Church,) the anniversary and business meeting being held in the Winter season. The Church of Rev. Dr. Adams, corner of Madison-avenue and Twenty-fourth-street, was filled with an appreciative audience, who were well repaid by an eloquently-delivered sermon. The exercises of the evening were opened by a hymn from the choir, and, after a prayer by Rev. Mr. Martin, Rev. Mr. Hastings was introduced—the chosen preacher for the occasion. His text was taken from 1st Samuel, from the 4th to the 13th verses, and was an elaborate, careful and eloquent sermon, proving the necessity of the Bible to controvert error and infidelity, and tracing its Divine origin and influences, and claiming that no work ever penned by human hands had so long and so successfully resisted the attacks made upon it, not alone by unbelievers, but by believers who chose to interpret its meanings to suit their own views. The sermon, at the instance of the Society, will be printed in pamphlet form, and at the request, as well of the preacher as of the officers of the Society, any attempt at a report is withheld.

At the close of the sermon, Mr. Wm. Allen Butler, in a brief statement, explained the objects and purposes of the Society, which were to distribute throughout the City, and to every class and nation, the Book of Life, acting in one sense as an auxiliary to the American Bible Society, whose sphere of operations embrace the entire world. This was introductory to the collection, which was as worthy, in its results, of the assemblage, as it was of the purposes for which it was taken.

After the singing of "Old Hundred," and a benediction by Mr. Martin, the congregation was dismissed.

Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions.

ANNUAL REPORT AND SERMON.

The annual sermon on the occasion of the Twenty-third Anniversary of the "Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States" was preached at Dr. Spring's Church, in Fifth-avenue, last evening, by Elijah R. Craven, D. D., of Newark, New-Jersey. Previous to the sermon, Rev. Dr. Wilson, the Secretary of the Board, read an abstract of the annual report, from which it appeared that the receipts from all sources during the past year have been $237,982 28, being an advance over last year of $7,901 71. In last year's report there were included over $19,000 more of the fund for repairing losses in India, and of Government appropriations for Indian schools, than is contained in this year's report; so that the actual increase of receipts from ordinary sources, over last year, is upwards of $25,000. The expenditures have been $234,037 73, leaving a balance on hand of $3,944 55. The number of missionaries sent out during the past year has been 44, which, with 22 others received in connection with that branch of the Choctaw Mission formerly under the American Board, makes the whole number added to the missionary force during the year 66—being double the number in service during any previous year. The reports from the various missionaries regarding the success of their labors are generally very favorable, in view of which the Board invoke the continued prayers and material aid of the Church.

After the reading of the report, Mr. Craven preached a brief sermon from the following text:

"He shall see of the travail of his soul, and shall be satisfied."—Isaiah, lvi. 11.

The fulfilment and satisfaction of the reward of Christ, as well as the glory of God, and of the Church, as effected through the instrumentality of missions, and the universal preaching of the Gospel, was the theme of the discourse.

The audience was not large.

Union Theological Seminary.

SERMON BY REV. DR. FISHER.

The annual discourse before the Society of Inquiry of the Union Theological Seminary, was delivered last evening by Dr. Samuel W. Fisher, President of Hamilton College.

The church was well filled. After prayer by Prof. Henry B. Smith, Dr. Fisher was presented to the congregation. Dr. Fisher indulged in some pleasant personal reminiscences, recalling his first address before this society, delivered 21 years ago. Referring to the means chosen by God to further the spread of His word, Dr. Fisher thought that the Anglo-Saxon race had been especially chosen for the accomplishment of this great work. For this they were peculiarly adapted by their energy of mind which combined with bodily vigor. And the migratory spirit, which eventually impelled the Anglo-Saxon to a change of home and the development of new fields of enterprise, contributed to fit him for the missionary's life.

By Anglo-Saxon Dr. Fisher did not mean the inhabitants of the sea-girt isle alone. Were England to perish, the Anglo-saxon would not die; he lives in grander life here in his first-born; and this first-born is yet destined to achieve a work which will fill Earth with admiration, and Heaven with songs of praise. In view of the various different denominations, Dr. Fisher thought they should all work together; that in the pure life of its members alone consisted the power of a Church; and that each denomination should be a missionary society in itself.

Dr. Fisher closed his remarks with an exordium to the young men of the Society of Inquiry, exhorting them to take a broad view of the field in which they were to labor, gird themselves in the armor of Christianity, and go forth in the strength of their conquering Lord. The meeting was closed with the singing of the Doxology and a benediction by Dr. Fisher.

The American and Foreign Christian Union.

SERMON OF REV. WILLIAM HAGUE, D. D.

The annual sermon of the American and Foreign Christian Union, preparatory to the anniversary meeting on Tuesday next, was preached last night at the Tabernacle Church, (Dr. Thompson's,) corner of Thirty-fifth-street and Sixth-avenue, by Rev. Dr. Hague. The reverend gentleman announced the subject of his discourse to be "God's covenant against Paganism," and read his text, Psalm xxv., 14: "The secret of the Lord is with them that fear him, and he will shew them his covenant." A cloud of gloomy mystery, the preacher said, overhung the moral economy of the world, but Christianity was uplifting the veil. It was, indeed, strange that a new and even a worse Paganism should have arisen upon the ruins of the old, and that after a pure religion had been specially revealed at Bethlehem, the majority of our species should be slaves of a degrading superstition—of an "oppressive Churchianity" of the dominant Church of Rome. Under a new name, a worse than the old Pantheon was restored in Rome. Instead of a Pagan Pontifex, there was a Papal one. Far nobler was it to adore the demigods of old Rome than to bow down to an image which was called God's mother. God forbid that one should cast censure on the splendid mythology of Greece and Rome, and look with an eye of commendation on that modern Paganism taught in the Papal Church. The Mahomedans were, in the score of morality, superior to Catholics, and the Empire of Japan stands higher, to-day, in the scale of civilization than Italy, Spain, or Portugal. The Pope's power was gone. He excommunicated Sardinia, but Victor Emanuel laughed at the foolish old man, and bade him mind his own business. The reverend preacher eulogized the American and Foreign Union, and said that in Italy the people were crying for Bibles. A great field was before them, in which to work, and the secret of their strength was that God was with them. After prayer and benediction by Rev. Dr. Campbell, the audience separated. The anniversary meeting of the Society will be held at St. Paul's Methodist Church, in Fourth-avenue, on Tuesday evening, when the report of the Secretary will be read, and several influential ministers, among whom is Rev. Dr. Chiniquy, of the Canada Mission, will deliver addresses.

The American Seamen's Friend Society.

SERMON BY REV. WALTER CLARK.

The annual sermon before the American Seamen's Friend Society, was preached last evening, by Rev. Walter Clark, in the Church of Rev. Dr. Storrs, Henry street, Brooklyn. The Rev. gentleman took, as a foundation for his discourse, the fifth verse of the sixtieth chapter of Isaiah—"Then thou shalt see, and flow together, and thine heart shall fear, and be enlarged; because the abundance of the sea shall be converted unto thee, the forces of the Gentiles shall come unto thee." The text was considered with special reference to the mission of the Society, and the importance of Christianizing the sailor. The peculiarities of his employment, and the magnitude of the interests confided to his trust, were glanced at, as an appropriate introduction to a consideration of the blessings that would flow from a thorough evangelization of those who go down to the sea in ships. In a mere worldly point of view, the additional security of goods, treasure, and passengers, under the care of a Christian captain and pious men, was pointed out, and thus an incentive was offered to merchants and to all having relatives and friends at sea, to aid the Society in its work. Then the Christian sailor was considered as an effective aid in the great work of spreading the Gospel through all lands. From the very nature of his calling he visited many lands where his example was potent for good or for evil. As a proof of that he referred to the fact that in many countries where the Christian virtues are unknown the inhabitants have long been familiar with the vices that are but too common in Christian nations. With these and other arguments he impressed the cause of the Society upon the minds of his audience, and asked for it their sympathies and prayers.

The Anniversary meeting, at which the doings of the Society during the past year will be reported, will be held in Dr. Cheever's Church this evening.

Church Anti-Slavery Society.

ANNUAL SERMON BY DR. CHEEVER AT THE CHURCH OF THE PURITANS—REV. DANIEL WORTH PRESENT.

The Church of the Puritans contained an unusually large audience last evening, on the occasion of the annual sermon in behalf of the Church Anti-Slavery Society.

Dr. Cheever entered the pulpit, accompanied by Rev. Daniel Worth, lately imprisoned by the authorities of North Carolina on a charge of vending incendiary Abolition documents. Mr. Worth was enabled to leave the State only through the interposition of two slaveholders, who signed his bail bond, to the amount of $3,000—and another slaveholder drove him (in disguise) by a circuitous route to the borders of the State. Dr. Cheever, in his prayer, thanked God for the presence of Mr. Worth, and prayed for the time when he should be allowed to preach the Gospel of Freedom in North Carolina. He did not, however, make any allusion to the agency of the slaveholders in procuring Mr. Worth's escape.

After the collection had been taken on behalf of the Church Anti Slavery Society to "carry on the various instrumentalities of warfare against this mighty sin," Dr. Cheever announced the fact that Mr. Worth was present; that there would be a brief prayer meeting after the services on his behalf, and that he would preach in this Church next Sunday. Dr. Cheever then announced his text as from Zachariah xi.: 4, 5.

Thus saith the Lord my God: Feed the flock of the slaughter.

Whose possessors slay them, and hold themselves not guilty; and they that sell them say, Blessed be the Lord; for I am rich [laughter]; and their own shepherds pity them not.

The text, Dr. Cheever argued, was the only passage in God's word that describes exactly the condition of our slaves; that there are no greater infidels than those who, while pretending to disapprove of infidelity, countenanced Slavery in the churches. "Why is it," he asked, "that when the friend of the slave makes the slightest mistake, those who pretend to be the friend of the slave stab him in the back, or throw obstacles in his way?" Why is it that a man gives $5,000 to the American Board, because the Abolitionists have denounced it as in complicity with Slavery? The churches, he said, were like hired nurses giving their babes laudanum to silence all interruptions to their enjoyment; that was the spirit in which the subject of Slavery was repressed in the churches. But not until the word of God was brought to bear fully on this sin, could it be broken up. The members of the churches should take the Bible, and teach the preachers. There should be preaching on the Sabbath, as well as on holidays and thanksgiving, and tracts and meetings. These were the objects of the Church Anti-Slavery Society; and yet, some of the pretended Anti-Slavery men would stab the leaders of that very Society, and reward them with bitter and malignant opposition. But, considering the little use of God's word that had been made, much progress had been secured, and the fruits were seen in this opposition. Some of these people who opposed Anti-Slavery agitation were like Dame Partington's, standing at their own kitchens trying to keep back this Atlantic tide of reform. [Laughter.] Then there were pretended Anti-Slavery men, trying to appear honest while threatening to turn their pastors out of the pulpit if they dared to preach or pray for the enslaved. Who could tell what the venerable Dudley Tyng would have done, could he have lived to have continued his grappling with this evil? Sometimes the opposition to the pastor's work came from vestrymen, as in Dr. Tyng's case, sometimes from trustees, sometimes from the society. A thousand modes of attack might be made to keep him from his work. Clark and Wilberforce had met with just such opposition. Another instance was in the case of Rev. Daniel Worth, who was present, who had been imprisoned because of his open declaration that he would preach the word of God on behalf of the oppressed. Those who attacked the Bastile might have to bridge the moat with their dead bodies. When a few more like John Brown or Rev. Daniel Worth should be sacrificed, then perhaps these lukewarm Anti-Slavery men would come in and try to take the credit. Was it fair for the Press and the Church to pour in charges that too much time was allowed to this subject? He appealed to his Church to declare that he had given enough attention to other themes, and even to Christ crucified. [A laugh.] He felt that God would approve his course, and that this work would go on in spite of opposition, to the glory of God and the confusion of Slavery.

Dr. Cheever announced that a public meeting will be held this evening at the City Assembly Rooms, at which Rev. Daniel Worth will speak; and that next Sunday evening that gentleman will occupy the pulpit of the Church of the Puritans.

African Civilization.

SERMON OF REV. HENRY HIGHLAND GARNET BEFORE THE AFRICAN CIVILIZATION SOCIETY.

Rev. H. H. Garnet preached, last evening, in Shiloh Presbyterian Church, upon the subject of African Civilization. After the usual introductory exercises, Mr. Garnet took his text in Isaiah, 57th chapter and 14th verse: "He that putteth his trust in me shall possess the land." He said that the whole duty of man and the happiness of life were summed up in three things: First, the worship of the true and living God; second, in home and country; and third, in the faithful discharge of duty to our kindred and to all mankind. He that truly worshipped God loved his home and country, but if the enjoyment of life and liberty were inseparably connected with these, then there were millions who were homeless. It was among the first duties of a people to seek a home and a country, and the colored people, of all others, should say with Franklin, "where liberty dwells there is my country." Here they were merely sojourners among strangers, without a home, mere tenants at will, and subject to the bitterest wrongs and outrages. Duty to themselves, to their offspring and race, as well as to God demanded that they should not be content to remain forever in a condition of thraldom and of moral and civil degradation, when the opportunity to rise was held out to them. Emigration was one of the grand instruments of civilization, and the Gospel required that Christians should carry civilization and a pure Christianity to those who sit in the dark places of the earth. The example of the Pilgrim Fathers was referred to. But for emigrants were needed—not the wicked and profane, the proud and scornful, the faithless and unbelieving, the lazy and timid, the ignorant and superstitious; but men and women of strong faith in God, of industry, and possessed of true Christian intelligence. He concluded by answering various objections to the scheme. The house was well filled, and the deepest attention was manifested thoughout.

Society for the Amelioration of the Condition of the Jews.

THE CONDITION OF THE JEWS AN AGENCY FOR THE SPREAD OF CHRISTIANITY.

The presentation of the Annual Report of the Society designated as above, and the delivery of the annual sermon in its aid, occurred last evening in the Dutch Reformed Church, corner of Fourth-street and Lafayette-place. At the close of the preparatory devotions, Rev. Dr. Penney, the Corresponding Secretary, submitted the report. He congratulated the Society on the fact that they had commenced to recover from a long season of prostration, beginning so far back as 1855. The Society's efforts, were he said, mainly confined to the City and its vicinity, and its work was principally done through the agency of three converted Hebrews, employed as colporteurs, to visit Jewish families and distribute tracts amongst them.

The number of families thus visited was 1,382; 34 individuals had called for serious conversation; 30 Bibles had been distributed, in German and Hebrew; 11 New Testaments and 84,000 Tracts, mostly in German. There were received:

From agencies	$927 34
From donations	44 00
Annual subscribers	27 00
Church collections	6 42
Legacies	10,431 10
Interest	347 50
A temporary loan	1,000 00
Total	$12,783 36

The disbursements are accounted for as follows:

By Relief Committee	$129 50
Publications	146 43
Miscellaneous and office expenses	178 25
Agents' Mission	606 37
Colporteurs	699 00
Settlement of old claims	869 77
Legal expenses	180 50
Total	$2,719 82
Cash in the treasurer's office	435 22
Bonds and mortgages	9,618 32
Hats for children	10 00
Making a total expenditure for the year of	$10,063 55
And leaving a balance on hand of	$12,783 36

Dr. Hickok, of Scranton, Penn., delivered the sermon, which was founded on the closing verses of the third chapter of Hosea:

"For the children of Israel shall abide many days without a king, and without a prince, and without a sacrifice, and without an image, and without an ephod, and without teraphim. Afterward shall the children of Israel return and seek the Lord their God, and David their king, and shall fear the Lord and his goodness in the latter days."

He applied these words, not as some commentators had done, to the subsequent captivity of the ten tribes in Babylon, but to scenes yet future in the history of our world, viz.: the dispersion of the Jews, and the birth of Christ. He alluded to that dispersion as a proof of the veracity of the sacred Scriptures, and showed from the history of the Jews that in every particular the prophet's prediction as to the first part of it, had been verified, and, as to the second, viz., that "afterwards the children of Israel shall return to seek the Lord their God, and David their King," he felt confident that in due time that would be realized also by their return to the faith of their Lord and God. The universal triumph of the Church, as the events of the time proclaimed, was near at hand, and the conversion of the Jews—who were distributed over the whole earth—who circulated wherever money circulated who adhered to their faith with a tenacity which, as their religion was Divine, so far as it went, would make them the better Christians—was inevitably designed to aid in that glorious work.

METHODIST GENERAL CONFERENCE.

Reception of Delegates from Ireland and Canada—Addresses of the Irish and Canadian Methodist Conferences—The Bishops' Quadrennial Address—Their Views on Slavery, Lay Delegation, Terms of Ministerial Service and the Progress of Methodism.

FOURTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Buffalo, Friday, May 4, 1860.

The meeting of the Methodist Episcopal General Conference this morning was the most interesting one that we have yet had. The addresses of the Irish and Canadian Methodists, presented by their representatives sent hither to deliver them, and the remarks of the representatives themselves, were listened to with deep attention. The important address of the Bishops, giving a comprehensive view of the progress of Methodism in the Northern United States during the past four years, was also read at this session.

Bishop Ames presided, and the meeting was opened with religious exercises.

Rev. James M. Fuller presented the certificate of Rev. Thomas Webster, representative of the M. E. Church of Canada, who, with Bishop Richardson, of Canada, he said, was present. They were invited to come forward and were introduced to the Conference.

The Secretary read the address presented by them from the Church in Canada. In it were expressed the interest felt in the proceedings and welfare of the Church in the United States by the Canadian Methodists, and some account of the condition and prospects of the latter was set forth.

The Church in Canada has 16,575 members; the value of its chapel property is $208,768, and it has a Seminary of Learning worth $40,000.

The address was referred to the Committee on Correspondence.

Bishop Richardson briefly addressed the Conference. He said the Methodists in Canada desired to fraternize with the Methodists in the United States. They felt attached to them from early association—admired the system of the Church, and believed that the Episcopal form of government was the correct one.

Bishop Morris introduced Rev. Robinson Scott, the representative of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Ireland.

A letter, dated at Dublin, April 3, 1860, accrediting Mr. Scott and the address of the Irish Church, in reply to the address of the last General Conference, dated at Cork, July, 1857, were presented. The latter was, as Mr. Scott afterwards called it, a "characteristically Hibernian document." It set forth, with many felicitous figures of speech, the gratification with which the words of aid of the American Church had been received, commended the unity of Methodists in behalf of the salvation of souls, expressed gratitude for the prosperity of the Church, dwelt upon the wide field of usefulness which was open to the Methodists in the United States compared with the contracted sphere in Ireland. It declares that the Methodists in Ireland have had much to contend with, but still stand firmly as witnesses for Christ, and are determined to continue their work. They think a brighter day is dawning for Irish Methodism, and rejoice in the hope of abundant reward hereafter for all that they may do in its behalf. The communication closed with a complimentary allusion to Bishop Simpson and Rev. Dr. McClintock, and their visit to Ireland as a delegation from the General Conference.

Rev. Robinson Scott said that, as the delegate of the Irish Methodists, it was his duty to do two things: first, he desired to convey the fraternal and affectionate salutations of the Irish Conference. They regarded their American brethren with the warmest sympathy. They had been specially pleased with the deputation sent to Ireland by the last General Conference, and believed that if Bishop Simpson and Dr. McClintock were specimens of their brethren here, they were entirely worthy of their love. In the second place he had to set forth the difficulties of the work in Ireland. They grew out of the fact that it was a Popish country—an old country, and a country from which there was a large emigration. Within ten years two-thirds of the Methodist population had emigrated. But in the darkest hour aid had come to them. He rendered thanks for the assistance sent them from the United States. The prayers of the two hemispheres had not gone up in vain. God had given the Irish Methodists a great work, and what they had thus far done was the precursor of the entire evangelization of the land.

Bishop Janes read the Quadrennial Address of the Bishops. The General Superintendents tender their affectionate salutations to the delegates, enlarge on the importance of their present gathering, commend their wisdom and piety, and say pointedly that they cannot see how party spirit can enter into so grave a body of preachers; that they are assured that there are no local representatives here, but that all feel that they are to labor for the advantage of the whole Church, whose true motto is E pluribus Unum. They allude feelingly to the death of senior Bishop Waugh, pronounce a eulogy upon his life and character, and notice the death of twelve members of the last General Conference. Notwithstanding the death of the senior Bishop, and the illness of another of their number, Bishops have presided at all the Conferences except two. The Conference on the Pacific coast has been met, and Bishop Simpson, as a delegate, accompanied by Dr. McClintock, has visited the British and Irish Conferences; the former examined the condition of Methodism in France and Germany, and the Scandinavian and Turkish Missions. Rev. Francis Burns has been ordained a Bishop, with Episcopal jurisdiction in Africa only. The educational interests of the Church are represented to be prosperous, but larger endowments are needed for the colleges. It is suggested that an educational board should be appointed, who should prevent the erection of too many institutions of learning, that all that are needed may have efficiency and strength. Although some ministers are needed in the Faculties of colleges, the Bishops deem it doubtful whether too many do not devote their time to teaching who might occupy fields of greater usefulness, while laymen might fully fill their places. The Bishops speak of the increase of the Sunday-schools with satisfaction—I sent you the figures yesterday—and give a sketch of the Book Concern, which, commencing in 1789, with a borrowed capital of $600, has now a net capital of $762 933; it has made large dividends on various occasions, and a part of the capital has been given to the Church South. It is now in a highly prosperous condition. The catalogue of Sunday school books is very large. The Bishops bespeak an effort to give a wider circulation to the tracts. A number of works have been published in the German language, and similar publications in the Scandinavian language are called for. The Church periodicals are spoken of very favorably. The cash receipts of the Tract Society have been:

For the year ending Dec. 31, 1856	$5,670
For the year ending Dec. 31, 1857	6,611
For the year ending Dec. 31, 1858	7,034
For the year ending Dec. 31, 1859	9,311

In these amounts are not included moneys paid for Tract purposes to the Conference Auxiliary Societies. The sum contributed for Tract purposes for the last four years is 82,728, the greater part of which has been expended solely under the direction of the Auxiliary Societies; a large portion of it in some of the Conferences in the payment of debts contracted previously to the year 1856. The aggregate number of pages printed and circulated since the last General Conference, is:

	Pages.
Of Tracts	25,952,000
Of Bound Volumes	20,874,700
Of Monthly Illustrated Tract Good News	7,344,200
Total	54,170,900

The Bishops speak with gratification of the numerous missionary contributions, and the increased number of converts. I have already sent you the statistics of the missionary work. The ministry of the Church is represented to be active and efficient. Great success has attended its labors. The number of members and probationers in 1855 was 799,431, and of ministers 5,408; the former in 1859 numbered 974,345, and the latter 6,877; making an increase respectively of 174,914 and 1,469. The number of church edifices is 9,305, and of parsonages 2,540, with an aggregate estimated value of $21,341,624—an increase in two years of 960 churches, and 366 parsonages, at a valuation of $3,341,624.

The doctrinal unity of the Methodists was also remarkable. A slight difference had in some sections manifested itself in the manner of teaching the doctrine of Christian Holiness. Some had used denunciatory language, and had encouraged erratic and irresponsible teachers, so as to produce strife, and in some cases slight secessions. Possibly some danger existed of leaning too strongly towards the doctrine of infant regeneration. Some difficulties have arisen in stationing the preachers in large cities, owing to previous negotiations between ministers and congregations. Such arrangements are evidently contrary to the economy of Methodism, and are productive of serious injury. On the part of some Annual Conferences opposition has been made to the transfer of ministers from other Conferences. Certain modifications were proposed. If they were made, certain members would be displeased; if they were not made there would be no extensive dissatisfaction. On the subject of Slavery the Bishops say that the propositions to change the General Rule not having received the constitutional majority of votes, they will refer to the views which they expressed at the last General Conference, which are unchanged. They think that there are great if not insuperable objections to admitting lay delegates to the Annual Conferences. They might be constituted a coördinate assembly, with the General Conferences sitting at the same time, but an entirely separate body, and passing upon the same measures. There seemed, however, to be no urgent necessity for providing for a lay delegation. It was doubtful whether an extension of the term of ministerial service was desirable at present, though an additional year might work no evil. By extending it, the Bishops think, the few would obtain advantage at the expense of the many. The address closed with an earnest prayer for the peace and prosperity of the Conference. It was directed that 2,000 copies be printed.

The views of the Bishops on the Slavery question four years ago, to which they refer in the address, were as follows:

"In our judgment, the existence of these Conferences and Churches, (in Slave States) under their present circumstances, does not tend to extend or perpetuate Slavery. They are known to be organized under a Discipline which characterizes Slavery as a great evil; which makes the Slaveholder ineligible to any official station in the Church, where the laws of the State in which he lives will admit of emancipation, and permit the liberated slave to enjoy freedom; which disfranchises a traveling minister who, by any means, becomes the owner of a slave or slaves, unless he executes, if it be practicable, a legal emancipation of such slaves, conformably to the laws of the State wherein he lives; which makes it the duty of all the ministers to enforce upon all the members the necessity of teaching their Slaves to read the word of God and allowing them time to attend upon the public worship of God on our regular days of Divine Service; which prohibits the buying and selling of men, women and children with an intention to enslave them, and inquires what shall be done for the extirpation of the evil of Slavery.

With this discipline freely circulated among the people, or certainly within the reach of any who desire to examine it, and with other Churches existing in the same territory without these enactments, these Societies and Conferences have, either by elective affinity adhered to, or from preference associated with the Methodist Episcopal Church. In a few instances their church relations have exposed them to some peril, and in numerous cases to sacrifice. But such have been their moral worth and Christian excellence, and prudent conduct, that generally they have been permitted to enjoy their religious immunities, and serve and worship God according to their consciences.

The usual petitions were presented in their order. Most of them were with regard to the proposed change of the rule on Slavery—generally in its favor. The superscription of one of them was somewhat paradoxical: "To exclude brethren in Christ who hold slaves from the Church." There was one from India asking for the establishment of a conference there. The Conference adjourned at noon.

FIFTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

THE ANTI-SLAVERY PETITIONS—SNUFF, TOBACCO AND DRAMS—COURTS OF APPEAL TO BE APPOINTED BY THE DELEGATES—ALLEGATIONS AGAINST THE BISHOPS—AN EXPLANATION—THE NEW-YORK AND WESTERN BOOK CONCERNS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Buffalo, Saturday, May 5, 1860.

Occasionally, as the preliminary business of the General Conference progresses, an episode occurs which gives an inkling of the preparations in progress for the discussion of the Slavery question—shadows cast before by the coming debate. Of this nature was the effort to-day to secure the reference in a bunch of all petitions. If the measure had prevailed, much of the influence which the imposing number of the Anti-Slavery memorials was designed to produce, would have been negatived. They would have been sent to the Committee on Slavery without being announced, one by one, in the Conference. Of course the "Progressives"—as those who favor a change of the rule are styled in contradistinction to the "Conservatives," who oppose it—voted it down. The morning was mostly occupied in a lively discussion of the proper method of appointing the Court of Appeals. As one of the brethren said afterwards, "We got our steam up this morning;" how the water was kept boiling, and the safety-valves worked, and the journey's end was reached at last, is fully set forth below.

Bishop Morris presided to-day.

A resolution, offered by Rev. Calvin Kingsly, (Erie,) directing that those portions of the journals of the several Annual Conferences which relate to Slavery, and other specific subjects, be referred respectively to the Committees which have those subjects in charge, was carried, and immediately

Rev. Reuben Nelson (Wyoming) moved that the petitions presented be referred en masse in the same manner. This motion was designed to prevent the announcement of the numerous petitions in favor of a change of the rule on Slavery, together with the number of names subscribed on each. This, of course, was opposed by the "Progressive" party, and was lost. Then

Rev. Mr. Nelson moved that the resolution, offered by the Chairman of the Committee on Slavery, referring the journals of the annual conferences by the wholesale, be reconsidered. Considerable debate followed, and

Rev. Mr. Kingsly said his object in offering the resolution had been to save time; the result had been the consumption of much time in discussion—therefore he was willing that it should be reconsidered.

The resolution was reconsidered and rejected.

The call for petitions and memorials proceeded. A great many relating to Slavery were presented. Some from the Kentucky and other Southern Conferences were from numerous petitioners against a change of the rule. The larger number, however, asked for the change. One of the latter had two hundred and forty-nine signatures.

There was one petition from an unfortunate brother, asking to be excused a debt of $23 for periodicals, inasmuch as he had lost the money in crossing a stream of water on his way to the Conference. His cross, in that instance, was heavier than he could bear.

Another was a memorial from the Maiden Quarterly Conference, asking for the insertion in the Discipline of Wesley's question, "Do you take no snuff tobacco or drams?"

Rev. Moses Hill, (Erie,) moved that the appeal of Alva Wright, of the North Ohio Conference, be referred to a Court of Appeals, to consist of fifteen members.

Rev. Wm. F. Cowles, (Iowa,) thought the General Conference should appoint the Court of Appeals, and that it should not be appointed by the Bishops, as it had been hitherto. The Bishops had been charged with corruption. There were agitators who endeavored to produce the impression that the Courts were packed and controlled by the Bishops. He had too much respect for the Bishops to be willing that they should be left open to this imputation any longer. To serve the Church, to save the credit of the Bishops and the General Conference, he moved that the members of the Court of Appeals be appointed by the delegates.

Rev. Mr. Hill was astonished to hear the brother intimate that the Bishops would resort to corrupt practices.

Rev. Mr. Cowles said he had expressly stated that he did not believe they had a bench of Bishops that would stoop to corruption. The brother had misunderstood him.

An unsuccessful motion to lay the matter on the table was made.

Rev. Hiram M. Shaffer, (Del.,) was for dividing the Conference into twelve judicial districts, each to furnish a member of the Court of Appeals.

Bishop Simpson hoped the brethren would relieve the Bishops by taking this matter into their own hands. The Bishops had conferred, and thought there should be a standing Court appointed by the delegates, the members of which would become familiar with the laws governing the action of such courts, and be eminently fitted to do justice in every case.

Rev. D. W. Clarke, of New-York, was for constituting a Court of Appeals of twenty-five members, to be nominated by the Committee on the Episcopacy.

Rev. Geo. Hildt, of East Baltimore, opposed the appointment of a Standing Court; first because it would take all the time of its members to transact its business; and, second, because the members would often pass on the cases of brethren from their own conferences.

Rev. Mr. Hill desired that in the case presented by him there should be a speedy trial. Mr. Wright could not afford to wait till this question of the method of appointing the Court was decided. He hoped that in this case the Court would be appointed as usual. It was strictly in accordance with the usages of Methodism for the Bishops to appoint the Court, and for one of them to preside over it.

Rev. E. O. Haven, of New-England, hoped that now, in the outset, when no suspicion could attach to such action, the change in the method of appointment should be made.

Rev. Adam Poe, of Northern Ohio, said this debate might be very edifying to the delegates, but it would not be so to Brother Wright, if he had to remain here two weeks and pay his expenses.

Rev. James Porter, of New-England, was for ultimately adopting a resolution authorizing the Committee on the Episcopacy to appoint the Court.

Rev. J. M. Reid, of East Genesee, said now was the time to decide how the Court should be constituted. There would always be the same reasons against action, and they would grow stronger with delay.

Bishop Simpson asked for the Bishops' sake that Mr. Hill would withdraw his motion. He would be glad if the Conference would take the whole matter in hand and constitute the Court at once.

Rev. Mr. Hill was placed in a tight place. He would do anything to oblige Bishop Simpson, but Brother Wright's case would be postponed so long if provision for its trial was not made now, that he felt bound to urge its speedy adjudication.

Rev. J. M. Fuller, of Genesee, opposed the appointment of a Standing Court.

Rev. R. Nelson, of Wyoming, was for a Court whose members should be nominated by the Chairman of the Standing Committees.

Rev. F. A. Blades, of Detroit, favored the appointment of a Court of fifteen members in each case as it was presented.

Rev. S. T. Monroe, of New-Jersey, moved that a Court of fifteen members, to be appointed by the Committee on Episcopacy, sit on the case of Mr. Wright, —its decision to be subject to the confirmation of the Conference.

Rev. H. Kingsly, (Erie,) arose. [Cries of "Vote," "Ready," "Ready."] Never mind, I have the floor. I can hear you halloo "Ready," till you're tired of it. [Laughter.] He was willing to take the proposed action in this case, but in this case only.

Mr. Monroe's motion was carried.

Rev. G. Moody (Cincinnati,) moved that a committee of five be appointed to consider the method of appointment and plan of proceedings of the Court of Appeals, and report next Tuesday.

Rev. J. H. Brown, (East Baltimore,) thought the Court should consist of one from each Conference, and that fifteen should constitute a quorum.

Rev. C. Cone, (Maine,) moved as a substitute that whenever a Court was demanded one delegate from each Annual Conference, except that from which the appellant came, should be a member of it; that fifteen should constitute a quorum, and that the appellant should have a right to challenge any member of it. This was adopted, 136 voting for it.

Bishop Simpson came forward and said that personally he had very little sensitiveness, but where the welfare of the Church was concerned he had a good deal. A remark had been made on this floor this morning, by a brother who was his personal friend, which would be spread over the country by the reporters, and should not be permitted to go abroad unexplained, or, if founded in fact, unsubstantiated. The brother, perhaps without fully weighing his words, had said that the Bishops had been charged with corruption. If there were such charges against any of the Bishops, they should be sent before the Committee on Episcopacy for examination. If there were not, the brother should explain.

Rev. Mr. Cowles was happy to say he was the warm friend of Bishop Simpson. He thought there was a misapprehension of misquotation on the part of the latter. He thought he had stated that it had been charged in a paper by those acustomed to sit in the Conferences, that the Bishops had exercised undue control over the Court of Appeals. If he was requested to name the paper, it was the Northern Independent.

Bishop Simpson repeated, that if there was any charge of corruption against a Bishop it should be brought before the Committee on Episcopacy.

Mr. Cowles had not intended to say that there was any charge of corruption in the paper.

The Western Book Agents complain that their Concern has been overtasked for the past five years, and back their statement with the following figures:

THE CONCERN OVERTASKED.

To show you that we are not without reasons for our opinion that the Concern has been overtasked in the last five years, we present a few figures:

Payments to Methodist Episcopal Church South since February, 1855 including $80,000 principal, and interest $9,120 48, and Southern account $12,926 61	$102,047 09
Loss on the Central Christian Advocate in three years	15,218 09
Paid by order of General Conference to Nov. 30, 1859	18,326 09
Value of building in Chicago, as shown in our exhibit	20,725 07
Total	$156,311 37
Our gross profits during the same period—one year the exhibit shows a loss, owing to settlement with the Methodist Episcopal Church South—have been about	$106,000 00
Excess of outside pay'ts over profits	$50,311 37

Now this whole amount of $156,311 37 has been paid out for matters outside of our proper business expenses, and it is a matter of surprise to ourselves, when we look at these figures, however it may strike you, that the Concern has stood it as well as it has.

There is another aspect in which we desire you to look at this. Our gross profits have been, as we state, about $106,000; but our cash profits are less. Thus the amount due us in Cincinnati and Chicago,

Nov. 30, 1859, was	$87,599 67
Nov. 30, 1856, was	62,915 93
Showing an increase in debts due us of	$24,683 74

To arrive at our cash profits, deduct this $24,000 from the gross profits of $106,000, and you have $82,000 as about the amount of cash profits realized since February, 1855. Now, within that time we have paid in cash for outside matters, as herein stated, $156,311 87, or $74,000 more than our cash profits.

The result of this is, the Concern has been almost entirely drained of its active cash capital, and has been compelled to depend largely upon its credit for carrying forward its business.

A petition was received from the Northwest Indiana Conference, with regard to the proposed changes of the boundaries of Conferences, respectfully asking "to be let alone." This and a host of other petitions were referred, and the Conference adjourned to Monday. No less than seventy of the delegates are announced to preach in this place and vicinity to-morrow.
